HOPKINS GETS ROPER POST IN U. S. CABINET

Roosevelt Appoints WPA Chief as Secretary of Commerce; Takes Office Tomorrow.

COMPLETES 'SHAKE-UP'

Shifts to Place Harrington in WPA Job; Williams to Be NYA Director.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — President Roosevelt announced today that he will appoint Harry L. Hopkins to his cabinet in the post as secretary of commerce, succeeding Daniel R. Roper, whose resignation became effective today.

The appointment will actually be made tomorrow and Hopkins will be sworn into office in the president's study before a small group of officials and members of the Roosevelt family gathered here for the Christmas holidays.

Hopkins' Successor.

To succeed Hopkins as WPA administrator, the president will "designate" Col. F. C. Harrington, a regular army officer, who has been serving as chief engineer for the Works Progress Administration.

Aubrey Williams, who has been assistant WPA administrator, and whose speeches and policies have been subjected to severe criticism in congress, will be transferred to the National Youth Administration as director.

These shifts will complete a major shake-up in New Deal personnel.

Draws Army Salary.

Harrington will not draw government pay as WPA administrator, but will continue to draw his salary as an army officer for special detail work.

The president had hoped to separate the National Youth Administration entirely from the Works Progress Administration, but this was found to be impossible, because the NYA act specifically designates that the youth organization is "within" the WPA.

Because of this Williams will work along with Harrington in the WPA, although his duties will lie almost entirely in administration of the youth organization.

Snow Falls But It May Be Gone Before Christmas

Nearly an inch of pre-holiday snow fell in Mansfield early today, but there was slight prospect that it would remain over Christmas, the weatherman said.

The snow, which fell in northern and central Ohio, made the highways hazardous for holiday motorists, and highway crews were busy today clearing slush from roads and cindering slippery sections of the main routes.

A prediction of rain and colder tonight and fair and colder Saturday held little hope of a "white Christmas" in Ohio. In several midwestern states, however, six inches of snow covered the ground, enough so that some of it was almost certain to remain over Christmas.

While the mercury dropped to two degrees above zero in northern Michigan, Mansfield had 18 above this morning. By noon, the temperature here had climbed to 33, just above freezing.

A blizzard swept sections of Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan, and more snow was forecast there before Christmas.

BLAST STARTLES WALL STREETERS

Electrical Transformer Explodes, Showers Sparks on Pedestrians.

NEW YORK—(INS)—Wall Street, center of world finance, was momentarily startled today when an electrical transformer exploded on the Irving Trust company building at the corner of Broadway and Wall street showering sparks and oil on passersby.

The transformer was on the outside of the building at the 21st floor level and "let go" with a roar that echoed down the Wall Street canyon.

A passerby who sighted the source of the blast and sparks turned in an alarm which brought several fire companies. The current to the transformer was quickly cut off, ending the fireworks display.

No one was injured.

BUY CHRISTMAS SEALS

Tons of Yule Food Ready For Baskets

500 Families to Share Christmas Bounty of Muster-Cheers.

TONS of food were piled in neat mounds today in the big gymnasium of the Salvation Army hall, ready for distribution tomorrow to more than 500 unfortunate families by Mansfield's Three Muster-Cheers.

Only the ham roasts and the bread were missing—and they are to be delivered early tomorrow morning just before distribution begins.

Contributions for one and two baskets for families in the last two days have made it possible to add an additional 25 names to the list.

Distribution, under the direction of James Zimmerman and Hollis Moorhead of the American Legion, will begin at 7 o'clock when 104 well filled baskets will be taken to the homes of elderly couples, blind and crippled persons who are unable to call for them.

At 9 o'clock general distribution will begin, and food will be issued according to the size of families. A family of 12 gets twice as much of everything as a family of six.

The Muster-Cheers have brought three tons of potatoes and 1,500 pounds of fine ham, cut in roast sizes and individually wrapped.

Each basket will contain, in addition to ham and potatoes, the following items: fresh cabbage, dry beans, can of tomatoes, a can of vegetables (peas, corn, beans or kraut), and a can of fruit, a pound of prunes, a pound of noodles, a jar of

SAVED AT SEA

20 Rescued From Freighter in Gale-Tossed Atlantic.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Twenty persons, including two women, were rescued from the disabled Norwegian freighter Smaragd in the gale-swept Atlantic 600 miles southeast of New York today by the American freighter Schodack.

Wireless reports to radio marine corporation said the rescue was effected following a night of anxiety during which the Schodack stood by waiting for a lull in the weather.

A message frm Capt. Clinton Smith of the Schodack said:

"All hands, including skipper of Smaragd, safely taken from disabled vessel."

The Smaragd, out of Norfolk for Fort William, Scotland, laden with oil in cases, sprang a leak and called for help.

JOBLESS DAD STEALS YULE TREE, KILLED

Farmer Near Grafton Fires Gun at Father, Mother as They Flee to Auto.

HAD $1.50 FOR TOYS

Spent It on 2 Children, Then Took Tree; They're 'Not Christians,' Farmer Says.

(By United Press)

GRAFTON—An 84-year-old farmer's shotgun killed William Rousseau, 37, an unemployed trucker, early today when he tried to steal a Christmas tree to make his two small daughters happy.

Rousseau's wife, Mae, 29, was wounded seriously by the farmer. She was taken to an Elyria hospital where doctors said she had "a 50-50 chance" to live.

The farmer, Will Case, white-bearded widower who lives alone on his Columbia township property, walked away after shooting the couple, without going to see what he had done. He was taken to the Lorain county jail at Elyria later.

Start Cutting Tree.

The shooting took place on Boone road, 500 feet east of Albion road. The Rousseaus, returning to their home in Grafton after visiting relatives in Cleveland, parked their car and entered Case's unfenced nursery with a saw.

Rousseau cut off the top of a large spruce and was dragging it back to the automobile when Case, waiting 50 feet away, fired the first shot.

Four pellets tore through Rousseau's back and punctured his lungs. He dropped the tree and staggered to the car. He died slumped over the wheel. His body set the horn blowing.

"I had started to walk down the road," Case said. "When they blew the horn at me, I turned and fired two more barrels."

These shots from the 12-guage shotgun struck Mrs. Rousseau who was standing, paralyzed with fear, near the car. She was wounded in the right side and breast. She was semi-conscious when taken to the hospital.

'Not Interested.'

"Case was not interested in them at all," Sheriff Carl Finnegan said. "It was like you or I might shoot a rabbit."

After the shooting, Case walked to the home of Leland Martin at Boone and Albion roads. He told Martin:

"I just shot a couple of guys trying to steal some more of my trees. Better call Constable Hitchcock and tell him they're lying on the road."

Case then went to Martin's greenhouse and warmed himself for 20 minutes by the furnace before going home to bed. He was awakened at 5 a. m. by Sheriff Finnegan.

"They were stealing my trees, I had to do something," the sheriff quoted Case as saying.

"The man is dead," the sheriff told him.

"If they were good christian people they would have been home in bed, not out stealing trees," Case replied.

With their last $1.50, the Rousseaus had bought cheap toys for

HOODLUM SLAIN

Assassins Kill Chicagoan Once Quizzed About Murder.

CHICAGO—(AP)—John Minogue, 30, described by Detective Chief John L. Sullivan as "one of the toughest hoodlums in Chicago," died today from several bullet wounds suffered last night when he was shot by unidentified assailants a few doors from his home.

Minogue, who at one time was questioned about the slaying in 1934 of Ell Daiches, Chicago advertising executive, had asked for police protection when brought to a hospital.

Arrest Official Carrying $100,000 On Traffic Charge

State Highway Patrolmen C. B. Tieben and W. H. Hamilton, escorted $100,000 in bonds into Mansfield last night—but they didn't know it until they arrived at police headquarters.

It all happened when the patrolmen arrested George E. Darnstatter on U. S. route 42, south of Lexington, charging he passed a truck on a hill, forcing an oncoming machine off the highway.

Brought to the Mansfield police station and charged with careless and reckless driving, Darnstatter identified himself as the city solicitor of Olmsted Falls and produced the $100,000 in non-negotiable notes which he said he was delivering to Columbus.

Darnstatter was released after posting $25 bond for his appearance in municipal court on Dec. 30.

CHECKS ON WAY

Pensions for Aged Expected to Arrive Before Yuletide.

Unless Uncle Sam's postoffices are too crowded with holiday mail, the 1,150 old age pensioners in Richland county will receive their December pension checks in time to do some last-minute Christmas shopping, State Treasurer Joseph T. Ferguson said today.

Most of the state's 112,000 pension checks were in the mail today, nearly two weeks late, after a $1,000,000 transfer to the pension fund from the liquor rotary fund.

Employes in the state treasurer's office worked last night to get the checks in the mail, despite the prospect that some of the checks might be caught in the Christmas rush and not delivered until next week.

Richland county's checks amounted to nearly $26,000, while the pensions in the state totaled $2,571,522.

Father Wins Custody But Girl To Be With Mother Christmas

Appearing only mildly interested in the court proceedings over her custody, little seven-year-old Vonda Jean Allen today was assured of spending Christmas with her mother in Mansfield, whom she has seen only briefly since last summer.

Two Richland county courts sent the child back to Iberia with her father and grandmother today, but the way was cleared for her to be brought to Mansfield Christmas morning and returned to her father Sunday night.

She will be with him until Jan. 20 when a hearing on his application for her adoption will be held in probate court here.

Seated on her grandmother's lap in common pleas court today, Vonda Jean heard Judge C. H. Huston dismiss the writ of habeas corpus obtained by her mother, Mrs. Helen Marshall, Mansfield, and return her to the custody of the probate court.

A few minutes later, Probate Judge C. J. Anderson, who recently placed her in the temporary custody of her father, Paul Mason of Iberia returned her to him and approved the parents' agreement for her to spend Christmas with her mother.

Judge Anderson at first threatened to send the dimpled little girl to the children's home, but was won over by the pleas of her parents.

Following a long and technical hearing in common pleas court, Judge Huston dismissed the writ on the grounds that it was a case for probate court jurisdiction. Atty. Marshall Moore argued the case for the father and Atty. Harold Burns for the mother.

The mother had obtained the writ after contending that the child was held illegally by Mason.

FRANCO OPENS CATALONIA PUSH

Launches Long-Awaited Drive by Taking Personal Charge of 'War's End' Campaign.

(By United Press)

BURGOS, Spain — The long-awaited Nationalist offensive against the Loyalist armies in Catalonia opened today with four lightning-like thrusts.

Generalissimo Francisco Franco personally was at the Nationalist front directing the big offensive, thus disproving reports that he was seriously ill.

Seeking to smash the Republican defenses in the Loyalists' Catalonian stronghold and speed the civil war to an end, the armies of Generalissimo Francisco Franco opened up big scale operations at 8 a. m.

The first momentum of the attack carried Nationalist troops through four breaks in the Loyalist lines, an official announcement reported.

Another official report early in the afternoon said that the offensive was continuing "strongly."

The offensive had been delayed by floods, cold weather and deep snow.

(Frontier reports said the offensive had been delayed by unrest in Insurgent Spain, where approximately 1,000 alleged spies and anti-Franco army plotters were arrested and some were executed.)

Similar treatment freed Paul McMillion of Williamsburg, W. Va., under sentence of a year and a day for using the mails to defraud.

2,000 DUE TO SEEK JOBLESS BENEFITS HERE

3 Stations Open Tuesday for Issuance of Cards Setting Time for Claim Filing.

More than 2,000 unemployed and partially unemployed workers in Mansfield are expected to register for "job benefits" when three "scheduling stations" open here Tuesday.

The stations where appointment cards will be issued will be located at the Ohio unemployment compensation commission branch office, 50 North Diamond street, fire station No. 3, 40 Chestnut street, and in the basement of the city hall.

Issue Cards 5 Days.

The stations will be open daily from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. from Dec. 27 through Dec. 31 for the issuance of the appointment cards designating the date and time reserved for the worker to register and file a claim at the branch office.

Maurice K. Wells, former Mansfield school teacher, who has been appointed manager of the Mansfield district office, and an office force of four clerks were on duty at the branch office today.

The new clerks, part of a staff of 16 which will man the local office are Miss Katherine Mazzo, of Columbus; Miss Helen Bowman, Perrysville; and the Misses Elinore Altman and Martha Barton, both of 151½ West Fifth street.

Miss Mazzo formerly was employed by the state in the bureau of motor vehicles, while Miss Bowman has worked in the Columbus office of the unemployment compensation commisison for the past four months. Miss Altman was formerly employed for the G. A. Davis Insurance agency of Mansfield and Miss Barton was with the Torrence Letter service here.

Wells explained that the appointment cards were being issued at the stations in order to spread registration over a period from Jan. 5 to Jan. 11, in an effort to prevent a rush when benefit provisions of the law become operative.

The appointment card, Wells said, explains to the unemployed worker that when he calls at the office to file claim he must present his social security card, an employment service identification card which is received when he registers for work, and a separa-

SPUR MANHUNT

Penna Guardsmen Join Search for Sex Fiend Killer.

TUNKHANNOCK, Pa. — (AP) — Volunteers and National Guardsmen threw their assistance today into an intensive manhunt for a sex-crazed fiend who authorities believed killed Margaret Martin, devout 19-year-old business school graduate, and tossed her mutilated body into an isolated mountain stream.

A description of the stranger who lured the attractive, brown-haired girl from her home in Kingston last Saturday with an offer of a job—made over the telephone—apparently was the only tangible clue. State police said an unidentified person informed them the man was between 25 and 30, neat, sauve and sandy haired.

The informer, police said, overheard the "employer's" conversation with Miss Martin from a pay station.

PARIS — (AP) — Armed soldiers mounted guard today before the still-smouldering facade of the Hotel des Invalides — which houses military offices, the army museum and Napoleon's tomb—where firemen successfully smothered a spectacular blaze that threatened France's military plans.

None of the army documents had been touched by the fire. It was believed the fire was caused by a snow-choked chimney.

Roosevelt Determined To Maintain Strong Attitude In Spite of Threat To Sever Diplomatic Relations, Washington Hears.

WASHINGTON—A high administration official indicated today that the United States would maintain its strong, positive attitude toward the German government even though resultant events might lead to a severance of diplomatic relations.

The state department's rebuke to Germany through Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles was not calculated to cause a diplomatic breach. But amicable relations were more strained than at any time since the World war because of Welles' refusal to apologize for, or express disagreement with a speech delivered by Secretary of Interior Ickes.

For the present, the result of the diplomatic clash depended upon the German government. It was stated officially that the next move, if any, must come from there. It was emphasized that the future of German-American relations may depend upon the action Germany takes.

According to high administration officials, President Roosevelt was determined not to back down, and is prepared, if necessary, to attempt to force Germany to live up to the terms of its "friendship" treaty which guaranteed the personal liberty and the rights of enterprise of all Americans residing in Germany.

The present situation was created at what must have been a most dramatic conference Wednesday between Welles and Dr. Hans Thomsen, charge d'affaires of the German embassy and ranking member of the German diplomatic staff here since the recall of Ambassador Hans H. Dieckhoff.

Protest Rejected.

Thomsen protested and demanded an apology for Ickes' speech in Cleveland Sunday in which he condemned persecution of Jews. Welles refused to accept the protest and, in addition, severely criticized the German-controlled press for "unjustified" attacks on Mr. Roosevelt and members of his cabinet, and former President Woodrow Wilson.

Welles then refused to officially express regret that Ickes' remarks had been made.

State department officials recalled that no satisfactory answer yet has been given by Germany regarding the status of Americans and American-owned property in Germany as a result of recent anti-semitic decrees—the cause of long-continued conversations and diplamatic exchanges.

Any move by Germany to include American residents and business interests in the provisions of those decrees, designed to force all Jews out of business, would create an extremely serious situation. Officials believed that any action along that line would force a complete break of diplomatic relations.

United States nations have more than $700,000,000 invested in Germany, and according to some officials, hardly any of it would be exempt from the provisions of the anti-Jewish decrees if certain interpretations were placed on them.

Another matter of considerable German-American friction is Germany's refusal to assume Austria's post-war debts to the United States. The state department has characterized this refusal as a "disregard of just rights of the bond holders and an inequitable consideration of American interest." It was warned that a "continuation of this situation is certain to intensify a feeling of injustice and discrimination."

Protest Rejected.

Dispatches from Berlin said Adolf Hitler will decide personally what Germany's answer shall be to the blunt rejection by the United States of yesterday's Nazi protest.

Nor Formal Break Yet.

In private quarters there was speculation whether the incident might lead to a formal break in relations between Germany and the United States. There was no hint from government circles. Neutral observers, however, inclined to believe that there would be no break, partly because of the possibly serious effect on German foreign trade. It was forecast that in event there was a break, Germany would seek to pin it directly on the Ickes attack.

The seriousness with which the government regarded the situation was made plain by the fact that neither afternoon newspapers yesterday nor morning newspapers today even mentioned the German protest or the stinging rejection of it by Sumner Welles, acting secretary of state.

The silence of the newspapers was interpreted to mean that Nazi leaders had not yet made up their minds what to do.

On other matters concerning the

WASHINGTON: See Roosevelt Warn Of Munich Humiliation

(By International News Service, Copyright 1938)

WASHINGTON — President Roosevelt formulated the final draft of a national defense message unparalleled since World war days today—a call upon congress for upwards of $2,000,000,000 to modernize the army and air corps—as diplomatic relations with Nazi Germany came perilously close to the breaking point.

In the rearmament message he will deliver to the new congress 11 days hence, International News Service learned, the chief executive is expected to call attention to the humiliation suffered by Great Britain and France at Munich under the threat of overwhelming force, and to warn that the United States must immediately bolster its relatively weak defenses—else face the possibility of a similar debacle.

The defense program, according to well-informed quarters, will embrace:

1. An air force of 13,000 fighting planes; 10,000 for the army and 3,000 for the navy—a force equal to that of Germany and Italy or Germany and Japan combined.

2. Re-equipment of the army, without undue expansion of its present standing force, with modern rifles, field artillery, anti-aircraft and anti-tank guns, tanks and complete mechanization equal to those possessed by the military dictatorships.

3. Basic preparation of the nation's industry for an instantaneous swing-over from peacetime to

LIMA: Confusion Rampant As Argentina, Brazil Dispute Pact

LIMA — (AP) — The question of western hemisphere solidarity and defense slid today into as deep a fog of confusion as the Pan-American conference has yet seen.

With Dr. Carlos Concha, president of the conference, declaring flatly "we already have reached an agreement" and with Brazilian and Argentine delegations denying an agreement had been concluded, the delegates, including those from the United States, could not figure out where they stood.

Following Concha's statement last night that 20 republics had agreed to Argentina's declaration of continental solidarity and defense everyone thought an accord had been reached and began to celebrate.

But the celebrations were sobered when Argentine and Brazilian delegates demurred and Afranio Mello Franco, head of the Brazilian delegation, demanded of Concha why he had issued the statement.

Concha, after talking with Secretary Cordell Hull of the United States, had a two-hour conversation with Mello Franco. After the talks Concha said everybody had joined in the agreement, including Argentina whose formula Concha declared had been accepted as "the basis for the agreement."

EDNA BOOKWALTER WED EARLY THIS AFTERNOON

Becomes Bride of Marvin Stevens at First Lutheran Church In Candle-Light Pre-Christmas Ceremony.

LIGHTED Christmas trees and two beauty vases of white chrysanthemums and pompons graced the altar of the First Lutheran church at 1 o'clock today when Miss Edna Louise Bookwalter became the bride of Marvin G. Stevens. The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Leroy Bookwalter, 473 Glessner avenue, was given in marriage by her father.

Rev. Grover E. Swoyer read the candlelight service which united the couple in marriage. Miss Bookwalter wore a gown of white star satin made in a floor length style with a slight train. The veil was made in a cap style attached with a high coronet of tiny pearls. It fell double to the shoulders and then descended to the floor in a single length for two and one-half yards. She wore a strand of pearls, a gift from the bridegroom, with her wedding gown.

The bride was attended by Miss Helen Mae Tomlin as maid of honor, Miss Jean Bookwalter, her sister, and Mrs. Norman Wendling, Cleveland. Miss Tomlin wore an aquamarine satin gown trimmed in dubonnet. The dress was made with a tight fitting waist and full skirt. With this frock she carried an arm bouquet of Talisman roses, and wore a matching band of flowers on her head.

Wear Satin.

The two bridesmaids wore wine satin made princess style with identical headbands of flowers. They carried arm bouquets of Johanna Hill roses.

Wesley Sprang, cousin of the bride, was ring bearer, and Jane Louise Sprang, another cousin, who wore a pale green taffeta floor length frock trimmed in white lace, served as flower girl. She carried a basket of white roses.

Achie Stevens, brother of the bridegroom, was best man, and Ray Stevens, another brother, and Glen Dillon were the ushers. Mrs. Clayson D. Bell was the organist, and Miss Javetta Bookmyer served as soloist.

"Oh, Promise Me" and "I Love You Truly" were the selections offered by the vocalist, and Mrs. Bell played the wedding marches, "Always" and "Indian Love Call."

Grandparents Attend.

Miss Bookwalter's mother attended the wedding wearing a black crepe dress with a corsage of Better Time roses tied with white ribbon. Grandparents of the bride, Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Bookwalter and Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Taylor, were also present and both grandmothers wore corsages of roses.

After the wedding relatives were received by the bridal pair at Miss Bookwalter's home. The couple then left for a western trip. For traveling Mrs. Stevens wore a black tailored suit with wine accessories and a corsage of orchids.

Mr. and Mrs. Stevens will be at home to friends after Jan. 1 at the Taylor apartments on Park drive. The bride, a graduate of the Mansfield Senior high school, has been employed at the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company. Mr. Stevens, son of Samuel Stevens, Honley Falls, Minn., is an employe of the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company.

Holiday Excitement Runs High As Visitors Arrive And Depart

EVERYBODY just seems to be bubbling over with Christmas preparations these days, and if you're lucky enough to catch your friends between mailing cards, wrapping gifts and making Christmas cookies you may learn that they're preparing for a house full of holiday guests or they're tossing the final pair of shoes into a traveling bag and heading for some other community to join in the festivities.

Mrs. T. J. Chamberlain, 136 Glenwood boulevard, left the middle of the week to motor to Fort Wayne, Ind. where she is visiting friends over the holidays. Miss Alice Bower, 136 Glenwood boulevard, is in Columbus where she is spending the holidays with her family.

Festivities start tomorrow night with a dinner and continue through Christmas day.

Informally Speaking...

By MARIANNE

MARJORIE FONKALSRUD (spending the holidays with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. A. O. Fonkalsrud, Forest avenue) unintentionally started a new fad on the campus at Capital university in Columbus this fall. Marjorie, a freshman, went for a hay ride with members of her sorority and their dates. Several members of the party decided to play a trick on Marjorie and removed the shoelaces from her oxfords. . . . When they reached the end of the ride, Marjorie found a couple pieces of rope and tied her shoes on with them. She wore them this way on the campus for a few days and within a week—much to her surprise—all of the other coeds had adopted the style!

Marjorie finds a lot more to do than set styles, however. She is majoring in music, and early in January will give two violin recitals at the university conservatory. But music isn't Marjorie's only interest . . . she is a member of the staff of the campus bi-monthly newspaper and belongs to both the swimming and riding clubs at the school.

MEMBERS of the Philomathian club had a lot of fun figuring out the answers to some contests which Margaret Ford, Ann Hartman and Ardis Linzee had a lot of fun planning when Anne Stephens entertained the group at her home on Shepherd road Wednesday evening.

Letters and pictures had been cut from magazines and pasted on cards to represent people in the news. Pearl Buck was represented by a pearl and a dollar sign. Then there was a fan, the picture of a woman's knee, and some rice to signify Fanny Brice. And if the handsome Anthony Eden could only have seen himself . . . a little red ant, the word honey, the letter e, and a picture of a den. Mayor Hunter might be interested in knowing that his name can be "spelled" with a piece of marred wood (Claude) and the picture of a hunter!

Another Mansfield college student, who is spending the holidays with her parents, is Esther Lantz. Esther will graduate from the Columbia College of Drama and Radio in Chicago next month and is planning to open her own drama studio here in February. Esther has received training in radio, stagecraft, and diction . . . which she will relay on to her students . . . either in classes or private lessons to children or adults.

ESTHER recently took part in exercises marking the opening of a new motion picture department at the college, when Jimmy Durante was awarded an honorary degree. . . . Esther says he's as "nutty" off the screen as he is on.

Young Tommy Bates (age 4), the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bates, has an obsession for talking on the phone and for horses of any size, shape, or description. So when Margaret Thull called his mother on the phone the other evening, he managed to get there first to answer it. Thinking he had a cold because his voice sounded rather husky, Margaret asked, "Are you a little hoarse, Tommy?" . . . and of course Tom's first thought was of his favorite animal . . . so he replied, "Oh no, I'm not a horse, I'm my Mummy's sweetheart!"

THE last week in January will be an exciting one for Marcia Roach . . . for it's then she will leave for an extensive trip—with Honolulu the final destination. . . . This will also be her first ocean voyage . . . pretty thrilling. . . . Naomi Kaler, whom you recall moved from Mansfield to Washington, D. C. about eight months ago, is going along. The girls go to New Orleans first and then through the southwestern states, to Los Angeles and up the west coast to Vancouver. . . . From there they will sail for Honolulu on Feb. 22. . . . And they don't know when they'll be back . . . 'cause it all depends on how well they like Honolulu.

FROM MY NOTEBOOK: Mrs. Harry Beidel received a telegram from her son, Bob, yesterday morning saying that he was married to a girl from Dallas, Tex., Wednesday evening. Bob, you know, is a former Mansfielder who has been working in El Paso, Tex. . . Helen Berlo received a Christmas gift from Hawaii last week—and she's had the will power to save the thrill of opening it until Christmas morning! The package is from Betty Smith, who formerly taught school in Mansfield, and is now teaching in Hawaii.

While most of us have to spend the winter braving one cold, snowy day after the other, some lucky people like Rhea and Tim Sammons can bask in the sunshine of warmer climates. The Sammons just returned home from Bermuda for the holidays, and after the first of the year, they are planning to leave for Florida, where they will spend the rest of the winter.

DICK POLING PERFECTS SOUND COLLEGE FOOTBALL RATING SYSTEM.

By OSCAR RUHL
News-Journal Sports Editor.

DICK POLING has batted at an 83.21 clip since he started wielding a pencil on football figures a few autumns ago.

That's a rather impressive percentage in this business of picking football winners, we understand, and it establishes the Mansfield wizard right up there with the Williamsons, Dickinsons and Litkenhouses.

Poling has found a good market for his ratings. They appeared in the only football weekly published last season. Several newspapers used it exclusively in preference to rankings compiled by more widely-known experts.

The Mansfield mathematician admits that it is a job to compile ratings, but, being a former star of the gridiron in his own right, he enjoys the work. He rates every college, large and small, and junior college teams—something like 600 in all.

It was along about 1928 while a lineman with the great Ohio Wesleyan team that whipped Michigan and Syracuse that Poling got the idea.

But first he merely toyed with the football figures as a hobby. A few years later he developed his system to a point where he decided it was even an improvement over the methods employed by other experts, so he marketed his ratings.

Poling's system is complicated. Of course, games won and lost are major factors in determining the ratings as well as the margins of defeats victories and defeats, but there are other points which must be considered. Strength of opponents and consistency of play are other items.

His predictions showed a winning percentage of 84.76 per cent this year. This figure is based on 1320 games. We doubt whether any other expert matched this percentage.

The fact that Poling's percentage in this year of many upsets is his best appears to be proof enough that he has perfected a fairly sound system.

Poling's four-year record follows:

Year	Wins	Losses	Ties	Pct.
1935	700	140	31	83.33
1936	797	187	39	80.74
1937	974	195	53	83.31
1938	1063	191	66	84.76
Total	3534	713	189	83.21

Poling Picks Upsets, Calls Tie Games.

AMONG the upsets Poling predicted contrary to general belief were the victories scored by Columbia over Army and Yale, Purdue over Wisconsin and Ohio State, U. S. C. over California, Syracuse over Colgate, St. Mary's over Santa Clara, Akron over Toledo, Cornell over Dartmouth, Washington over U. S. C., Duke over Pitt and Brown over Columbia.

Ties called by Poling included the deadlocks played by Auburn-Tulane, Nebraska-Indiana, Ohio State-Northwestern, Michigan-Northwestern and Georgia-Georgia Tech.

Of course, Poling admits that the chances of picking a tie game are limited, but he is pleased by the frequency with which his system has called the turn.

Poling has also compiled a football record book. It was advertised in a national football weekly early last fall, and responses came from every state in the union, in addition to Hawaii, Puerto Rica and other distant places.

The Mansfielder also advertised a football question and answer bureau. Question of every description have been sent to him by fans to be solved. He claims he has not been stumped yet.

Poling's ratings this year place Texas Christian at the top with a percentage of 44.38, just short of a perfect 50. Oklahoma, not highly regarded by other experts, is placed second, with Tennessee, Duke, Notre Dame, California, Carnegie Tech, Pittsburgh, U. S. C. and Holy Cross following in that order. His rating of the major leaders follow:

Ontario Hangs Up First Win

Kiblermen Defeat Bellville in Wild Game, 36-13.

CAGEMEN of Ontario high school of Springfield township, beaten in their first three games, hung up their initial victory of the new campaign last night when they handed Bellville a 36 to 13 shellacking on the Bellville hardwood.

And Ontario, which is the defending Richland county league champion, broke its losing streak in the wildest and roughest contest staged in the circuit this season.

Referee In Trouble.

It was a rough-and-tumble battle, and Referee Ric , late of Otterbein, found it difficult to control the game.

The first period ended with the score tied, 5-all, but Ontario doubled the score on the hosts in the second period to hold a 17 to 11 advantage at the the intermission.

Coach Orville Kibler's green Ontarioans settled down in the second half in which they permitted Bellville only two points. Bellville failed to garner a point in the last period.

Ontario scored 12 points in the third period to obtain a 29 to 13 lead, and added seven more unnecessary points in the fourth frame while holding the Bluejays scoreless.

The victory shot Ontario into a tie with Bellville and Lucas for fifth place.

Hudson Leads Way.

Hudson, who scored five field goals and three free throws, led Ontario in point-making with 13 points. Matz Hager was next high with 10. Coach Royd Hodge's Bellville club, which got only four field goals, was led by Martin's four points.

The Bellville reserves won the preliminary game, 20 to 7.

1938 The Year In Sports

Tennis

By DILLON GRAHAM

NEW YORK — (AP) — Tennis crowned its first grand-slam champion in 1938: carrot-thatched Donald Budge, king of Australian, French, British and American courts, who promptly renounced his thrones for a pot of gold.

Budge, the gangling California master, was the outstanding figure in a year that saw the U. S. defend the Davis cup, an American sweep in the Wimbledon (Eng.) championships, and another sharp chapter in the spectacular Helen Wills Moody-Helen Jacobs rivalry.

The domestic scene pictured the rise of cocky young Bobby Riggs of Chicago to a Davis cup singles berth after triumphs at Longwood, Seabright, Southampton, Rye and in the National clay courts championship. It also was featured by a succession of astonishing upsets in the American singles championships, including Riggs' defeat by Gil Hunt; doubles-player Gene Mako's triumph over Aussie Jack Bromwich and others to reach the finals against Budge, and the elimination of Helen Jacobs by England's Margot Lumb.

There was nothing spectacular or colorful, no suspense or drama, to Budge's exploits. His was just one routine victory after another.

One By One.

His march began with a triumph over Jack Bromwich in Australia. Then he won the French crown, Czecho-Slovakia. Next came the British diadem, gained easily against Bunny Austin. And finally the knotting of the four-ply string with an American triumph over his close friend and doubles mate, Mako.

Budge led the defense of the Davis club at Germantown, Pa., against Australia, beating Adrian Quist and Jack Bromwich. Riggs, the youthful newcomer, gave the U. S. an advantage by whipping Quist in the opening match. Bromwich and Quist rallied to take the doubles event from the Budge-Mako duo. Bromwich beat Riggs in the last and unimportant match. The U. S. thus won 3-2.

Previously, Budge and Mako had beaten the Australian pair to win the U. S. doubles.

Soon after clinching his grand slam, Budge abdicated to join the professionals and collect some $75,000 in a tour next year with Ellsworth Vines. His going darkened U. S. hopes of retaining the Davis cup next season.

Moody vs. Jacobs.

Even Budge's triumphant advance was overshadowed as public interest was attracted to the Moody-Jacobs episode on the historic Wimbledon center-court.

Mrs. Moody had come out of retirement to pace the U. S. Wightman cup team to a 5-2 decision over the British. Moving into the Wimbledon singles, she drove through to the finals, where her opponent was Helen Jacobs, her arch-foe of the courts. A great match was envisioned in the first meeting of these duelists since Mrs. Moody won in the 1936 Wimbledon championships.

Miss Jacobs was slightly ahead in the first set when she pulled a tendon in her right leg. Without suggesting a rest, never once speaking to her stricken foe, Mrs. Moody placed her shots sharply out of reach of her hobbling opponent and quickly ran out her eighth Wimbledon championship.

Upon her return for the American championships, in which Miss Jacobs was entered and a return match anticipated, Mrs. Moody announced she would not play because of neuritis. She returned her British trip expense money to the U. S. L. T. A., since players financed abroad are supposed to play in the home championship. But the startled U. S. L. T. A. gave it back. Mrs. Moody's withdrawal was in some quarters regarded as a possible farewell to tennis.

Alice Marble Wins.

The U. S. women's championship came back to this country as Alice Marble beat Nancy Wynne of Australia in straight sets. Miss Marble and Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan won the U. S. doubles.

Americans made a clean sweep of the Wimbledon championships, for, in addition to singles victories by Budge and Mrs. Moody, Budge and Mako won the men's doubles and the Marble-Fabyan combination took the women's doubles.

Former greats Sidney Wood, Wilmer Allison and Frank Shields essayed comebacks with Wood reaching the U. S. singles semi-finals against Budge.

Joe and Gil Hunt and Charles Kovac were perhaps the brightest prospects developed.

Death claimed the famous French star of other years, Suzanne Lenglen.

Baron Gottfried Von Cramm, German ace, was imprisoned in his home country on a morals charge.

ALICE MARBLE AND DONALD BUDGE
They were the queen and king of American tennis. Budge, voted the Man of the Year in sports in the AP national poll, scored a "grand slam," winning the world's four major singles titles. He enabled the U. S. to defend the Davis Cup and shortly afterwards turned professional.

Led by Calhoun, who rattled the strings for 24 points, the Reformatory inmates marked up a 53 to 44 victory over Dave's Cleaners, Barberton City league leaders, at the institution yesterday.

Calhoun scored 10 field goals and four three throws, while Murphy contributed 14 points. Taylor added 10. Mackousky was high for the visitors with 14.

Tonight's No. 1 conflict pits the Rex Billiards against the Blue Goose Sohioans, and the outcome appears very much in doubt. The Billiards are the defending champions, but are expected to find the Sohioans troublesome.

The Raemelton Farm and Musille Cigar teams collide in the first game at 6:45 p. m., with Augustine's Canfield Oils and Miller's Dairys clashing in the middle fracas.

County League Leaders Play Again Tonight

Butler Meets Union, Madison Faces Lexington.

Tonight's skimpy neighborhood basketball schedule will be headlined by two Richland county league games. The two games on the county bill will bring the two teams tied for the lead in action for the second time this week.

Butler, which now boasts of six straight triumphs, goes to Union, while Madison Rams, whose only defeat came in a non-league game, is host to Lexington.

Butler and Madison are favored to extend the championship hopes, but neither team is expected to win with ease. Both Lexington and Union have shown improvement in recent games.

Lucas, the only other county league team in action tonight, plays a non-league affray at Hayesville.

Two N. C. O. conference tilts are on schedule tonight. Shelby, still without a victory, entertains the undefeated Ashland quintet, while Bucyrus invades Galion, where the Orangemen are favored to add another win.

Bucks Beaten On Foul Line

Permit Washington to Come From Behind to Win.

SEATTLE, Wash. — (U.P.) — The University of Washington solved Ohio State's zone defense in time to come from behind and win an intersectional basketball game, 43 to 41, last night.

The teams meet again tonight and then Ohio State goes to Berkeley, Cal., for a game Monday night against University of California of Los Angeles.

The Big Ten visitors had command through most of the first half against the Huskies and Coach Harold Olsen sent a second string lineup into the game. Washington rallied and was within two points of the visitors at half time, 19 to 21.

Olsen brought back his regulars in the second half, but Washington began a sustained offensive, matching field goals with the Ohioans until midway in the period when the Huskies took the lead. State tried to erase the advantage and scored a final field goal simultaneously with the final whistle but was still two points short.

Capt. Jimmy Hull, Ohio State forward, basketed 16 points to lead the scorers and bring his two-game total this season to 35. All of his tallies last night were field goals. Roy Williamson, short, fast forward for Washington, scored 14.

Inability to convert free throws cost the Bucks their victory chances. They made only nine of 19 attempts while the Huskies caged 14 out of 25. The visitors made 20 fouls and Jim Lynch, regular guard, and Dick Baker, forward, were forced to leave the game on four personals.

Purdue Suffers First Defeat.

CHICAGO — (U.P.) — Purdue suffered its first defeat of the season last night at the hands of Southern California, a surprise which casts a shadow on its outlook for the Big Ten basketball title.

But the loss was only one of three which Big Ten teams suffered in non-conference games last night. Michigan was the only conference team to win, defeating Cornell 42 to 27.

Purdue's defeat—35 to 30—was the first it has taken on its home floor in nearly two years. Notre Dame came back into its own by defeating Northwestern 48 to 30.

PREISS GETS AWARD

Jack Priess, a former Madison high school star, was listed among the 40 Ohio State freshmen who received sweaters and numerals for their work on the gridiron last fall.

Warns of Danger On Reservoir Ice

While skating has not been prohibited at Charles Mill reservoir, officials of the Muskingum Conservancy District pointed out today that certain portions of the lake are dangerous for this winter sport.

Even in extremely cold weather parts of the lake will not freeze solidly due to fresh water flow into the reservoir, it was said.

Officers of the District emphasized that the portion of the lake north of Route 30 is an inviolate game sanctuary in co-operation with the Ohio Division of Conservation, and that trespassing there is prohibited because of plantings and nesting. No vehicles should be driven on the ice at any time.

Bobcat Trails By Three Points

Frank Baumholtz, Product of Midvale High, Has Chance to Pass Toledo Star Tonight.

By JIM EMERSON

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—A fleet sophomore basketball player scaling five feet, 10 inches in height and shooting goals for the Ohio U. floor team threatened today to steal the high-scoring thunder this winter of Toledo's Chuck Chuckovits.

The newest point-making sensation is Frank Baumholtz, a product of small Midvale high school who in his first five games of college basketball has netted 106 points.

The speedy Bobcat newcomer has tallied 40 field goals and 26 free throws in five contests to draw within three points of Chuckovits' total of 109 for six games this month.

Chuck Scores 19.

The Rocket ace tossed in 19 points more last night to enable Toledo to edge Central State (Mich.) Teachers, 39 to 37, but Baumholtz gets his chance tonight to forge ahead when Ohio closes a five-game road trip against George Washington university at Washington, D. C.

The new Bobcat star is under the six-foot stature common to most court scoring geniuses but he makes up in speed and shiftiness what he lacks in height. He has tallied between 19 and 25 points in each start this season. He opened at home with 19 against Marietta and then sparked Ohio to three out of four victories on the road. He made 19 in a losing game against Western Reserve, 19 against Buffalo; 25 against Scranton and 24 against St. Joseph's of Philadelphia.

Coach Dutch Trautwein claims his prize yearling also performs strong defensively and is a clever ball handler.

Already, the Midvale youth has surpassed existing Ohio U. scoring records for five games as a sophomore. "Beanie" Berens, holder of the Bobcat record, netted only 73 in his initial five starts in 1932, while Nick Lalich, Bobcat ace who graduated last June, got only 34 in 1935.

Chuckovits' fast pace last night put him out in front in his drive to set a new three-season scoring record for Ohio but he may have a battle all the way from Baumholtz for the season's scoring crown.

Edged by Miami.

In other games last night, Baldwin-Wallace was edged out by one point for the second time in two starts when Miami came from behind to win, 27 to 26. Xavier dropped a decision to Washington & Lee, 48 to 38.

After five games tonight, the Ohio court teams suspend hostilities until Monday night when Centenary plays at Toledo and Ohio State engages U. C. L. A. at Berkeley, Cal.

Legionnaire Kegler Hits 700 On Nose

Brig Young Turns in Games of 204, 238, 258.

Brig Young hit the 700 mark right square on the nose as he led the American Legion to three victories over the Mansfield Savings Bank in a postponed Club league match at the Meder alleys last night.

Young started off with a 204 in his torrid series, jumped to 238 in his middel game and climaxed his string with a flashy 258 as he provided the big share of the Legionnaires' 2925 total. Joe Thull contributed a 610 to the Legion count.

The Mansfield All-Stars defeated the Willard Dairy, 2772 to 2671 in a special match at Willard last night, with Carl Heilman leading the way with a 591.

A 2712 total by the Appliance Finishing team was high in the Westinghouse league. Harold Geiger, 586, and Tony Schadek, 583, led the Finishers.

Ohio High School Mat, Tank Eliminations Set

COLUMBUS — (U.P.) — Rapid growth of wrestling as a competitive sport in Ohio high schools brought announcement today of inauguration of three district wrestling meets next spring by the Ohio High School Athletic association.

The association plans to hold district elimination meets at Akron, Cleveland and Columbus prior to the regular meet March 17 and 18 at Kent State university, Commissioner H. R. Townsend said.

Townsend also announced the sites of the three district swimming meets Feb. 25 will be the same as last year: Cincinnati Y. M. C. A.; Toledo Y. M. C. A. and Western Reserve Academy, Hudson. The state tank meet will be held March 4 at Ohio State university.

Announcement of the meets were made as Townsend completed arrangements for the annual meeting of the association's control board next Tuesday in Columbus.

Principal items of business will be tabulation of ballots for election of new members to fill two new seats on each of six district governing boards, election of state board officers and action on a proposal to change the distribution of district and sectional basketball tournament profits.

Superintendent Fred Kinley of Findlay has been nominated without opposition to fill one of two vacant seats on the state central board but there are four candidates contesting for the other seat now held by Principal C. M. Sims, Piqua.

Sims will retire from the board and its presidency along with L. M. Kaufman, Attica, who has been vice-president.

Candidates for Kaufman's seat are A. F. Roush, Brookville; W. F. Hoerner, Versailles; Z. M. Walter, Wyoming, and Alfred M. Milner, St. Bernard.

The Year in Review—

REORGANIZATION BILL'S DEFEAT MARKED APRIL

Sudetens Demand Independence From Czechs; Dionnes Have Another Baby.

By VOLTA TORREY
AP Feature Service Writer

Late one gray, rainy April day, the Democratic house of representatives delivered what Speaker Bankhead had warned would be a "lethal blow" to the Roosevelt administration. It voted, 204 to 196, against reorganizing the U. S. government.

During the dramatic debate beforehand, "Paul Reveres" had galloped to Washington, and tee Committee Rules Chairman O'Connor, who fought the bill and later was "purged" rom office, declared: "It is the biggest issue I have ever seen."

Chapter 4 of a Month-by-Month Review of 1938

That same month the president, in his 12th fireside chat, sprang his $5,000,000,000 spending and lending assault on the recession.

The shape of things to come in the summer and autumn was becoming clear to perspicacious politicians. There was much said, meantime, of whether the vice-president had or hadn't advised Mr. Roosevelt to "give the cattle (meaning business) a chance to fatten."

With Malice Toward Some.

April's cables from Europe were portentous, too: Britain and Italy kissed and made up. Edouard Daladier succeeded Leon Blum as pukka sahib with virtually dictatorial authority in France. Konrad Henlein demanded independence from the Czechs for Sudeten Germans. And in Poland and Hungary, as well as Germany, there was yammering about Czech frontiers.

Through April's mud and blood, Spanish insurgents sloughed their way to the Mediterranean, severing Catalonia from the rest of the loyalists' land, and Caudillo Franco figured the war was nearly won. In China, Japan took a licking at Taierhchwang.

"Liberty in Europe is being murdered," a laborite lamented in London. "The prime minister is the undertaker, waiting to bury the corpse," But Commons refused, 359 to 152, to censure Mr. Chamberlain. Reichsfuehrer Hitler, meanwhile, let Germans, including ex-Austrians, vote for him—and was 99 per cent successful.

Babes in the News.

Opening ball games drew record crowds. "Of Mice and Men" won the New York drama critics' prize. Women with strapless evening gowns combed their hair up instead of down and read "Fashion Is Spinach." Songs of social significance caught on. And the movie most in the news was "Birth of a Baby."

Mrs. Olivia Dionne had another baby. Yale Prof. Abraham White, 30, announced isolation from the pituitary gland of a pure protein crystal that causes the mother instinct. Jackie Coogan sued his mother and stepfather for $4,000,000. Albanian King Zog married a half-American Hungarian countess. Henry and Clara Ford celebrated their golden wedding. Dr. Francis E. Townsend was excused by the president from 30 days in jail for contempt of congressmen. Socially prominent Mrs. Weston G. Frome and her daughter, Nancy, were found clubbed to death on a Texas highway.

Pickets and Progressives.

NLRB ordered the previous summer's steel strikers reinstated. Pickets collecting dues closed auto plants. Michigan's Gov. Frank Murphy sped home from Florida to settle a power strike. President Roosevelt put the railroad problem up to congress. And Wisconsin's Gov. Phil La Follette unfurled a banner with a strange device—an "x" inside a circle—in the hope of rallying progressives together under it.

Birds came north. Su Lin, baby panda in the Chicago zoo, died. And Gargantua, a big ape in the circus, became American Animal No. 1.

These Men Made News In April

Franco wins a new victory.

Henlein makes a new demand.

LaFollette forms a new party.

RENEWS LEASE

County Rents Relief Office for Six More Months.

County commissioners renewed their lease yesterday on rooms occupied by the city and county relief headquarters at 28 Orange street.

The lease is for six months, covering the period from Jan. 1 to June 30, 1939. Commissioners will pay $70 a month rent for the rooms which were rented from Mrs. Della Berger, 587 Park avenue west.

A new state relief law which went into effect several months ago requires county commissioners to provide relief headquarters.

44 Children on Welfare List Receive Checker Sets.

Forty-four indigent children in Richland county who are receiving aid through the county department of public welfare will receive a hand-made Chinese checker board and a set of marbles for Christmas, Mrs. Katherine McMichael, county welfare director, said today.

The checker boards were made by boys in a National Youth administration project at South park from lumber donated by the Mansfield Lumber company, the Tinkey Lumber company and the Lutz Lumber company at Lexington.

Linseed oil for finishing the boards was furnished by the Martin Hardware company. Floyd Dent, Mansfield Boy Scout executive, supplied the marbles that go with the boards.

GALION — Word has been received here of the birth of a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Eugene J. Gilliland of Van Wert, Ohio. The mother was formerly Evelyn Quinn of Galion.

OPENING GAINS FALTER UNDER PROFIT TAKING

Forthcoming Holiday, Further Tax Shifts Act as Brakes to Recovery.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Stocks ran into profit taking today after an early upturn and initial gains of as much as a point or so were substantially reduced.

The news generally was to the liking of Wall Street, but some traders lightened commitments because of the forthcoming holiday and further tax shifts acted as a recovery brake.

Among favored stocks were Bethlehem Steel, Republic Steel, Pennsylvania, Douglas Aircraft, Johns-Manville, Allied Chemical, American Can and Anaconda.

Secondary carrier bonds were in demand and major commodities were moderately improved.

Dropping market sentiment were week-end trade reviews which disclosed retail spending during the past week expanded to the best levels of the year.

Dun & Bradstreet said that "in many centers merchants acknowledged that only thin stocks had kept them from recording the best totals for any pre-Christmas week since 1929."

Not so pleasing was another drop in commercial loans, as reported in the latest federal reserve statement.

TONS OF FOOD READY FOR NEEDY

Muster-Cheers to Distribute Christmas Bounty to 500 Families Tomorrow.

peanut butter, a pound of coffee, a pound of butter substitute, two loaves of bread, a pound box of crackers, a large can of milk, old-fashioned cookies and oranges. Medium size baskets will weigh 35 pounds, while those for larger families will be increased considerably as 20 pounds of potatoes are given to families of 10 or more.

Besides the Christmas baskets distributed by the Three Muster-Cheers, more than 75 families have been "adopted" by groups and individuals and will be given their dinner and in many cases clothing and toys.

The office of the Three Muster-Cheers in the Farmers Bank building will be closed all day tomorrow, and all activities will be transferred to the Salvation Army hall.

Contributions so far this year totaled $145.75, of which Mansfiled police gave $50. The greater part of the money for baskets—approximately $900—was raised through the Christmas ball and show last Monday night.

HOSTESS TO GROUP

The December meeting of the Past Chiefs association was held at the home of Mrs. Cora Miller with Mrs. Carrie Harter as associate.

These women emphasized the meeting with holiday decorations, including a replica of the pioneer fireplace, lighted wood, Christmas stockings, knitting basket and mantel candles.

There was a beautifully decorated Christmas tree and special lighting throughout the home. Several contests had been arranged by Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Harter. Prizes were won by Goldie Secrist, Ina Kochheiser, May Newhouse, Marjorie Myers and Bertha Mellott. Mrs. Carrie Staunton held the lucky number for the mystery box. Another enjoyable feature of the meeting was the revealing of "Pals" and exchanging of gifts.

Refreshments were served at small tables bearing holiday appointments to the following members:

their daughters, Geraldine, 11, and Rose, 8, earlier in the evening.

Sheriff Finnegan said his men had been protecting Case's nursery, where many spruce trees the aged farmer set out by hand had been stolen this year and last.

A year ago, the sheriff said, Case was robbed by two men who tied him up in the farm house. Case's wife died four years ago.

"He told me that 75 trees were stolen the night before," Sheriff Finnegan said. "At 10 last night he took his shotgun and went out to watch his trees.

"By 2:30 he was about ready to quit when he saw the car drive up. He lay in the shrubbery and watched until the man had sawed off the tree-top and was dragging it to the car.

"Apparently he thought the two people were both men. He also claimed there was a third man, who ran away. He said the reason he walked away after the shooting was because he was so cold and wanted to get warm."

Gifts Ready For Kiddies.

The sheriff said he would keep the Christmas gifts, unopened, for the Rousseau children who were left in care of Rousseau's mother, Mrs. Dafah Dahn, when the parents went to Cleveland.

In Cleveland, the Rousseau's visited Mrs. Catherine Dovas, Mrs. Rousseau's sister, and Mrs. Raymond Whelan, Rousseau's sister.

"They only come up to see us once a year or so," Mrs. Dovas said. "They're so hard up. Mr. Rousseau lost his trucking job six years ago and hasn't had a steady job since. He was on WPA for a while. Lately he's had two or three days' work each month at a greenhouse in Grafton.

"They have been married 12 years. They seemed perfectly happy despite the hard time they've had. I can't believe they would try to steal a tree. They were always good people. And now he's dead when we could have bought one for a quarter.

"They ate supper with us and after we gave them the lights for a Christmas tree and a few toys we had bought for the children, they went out to his sister's house.

"They only had a few cents with them. Mr. Rousseau said they had saved a little money and spent it at the dime store for the kids."

CHRISTMAS TREES

The last call for genuine Canadian Spruce and Balsam trees. Don't wait—buy now and avoid the last minute rush. We buy our trees direct from the forests. There is no middle man or company to share the profits. We have a new shipment on hand. Trees were cut Wednesday of this week. We must sell them or burn them, so we'll sell them at the lowest possible prices. Shop elsewhere first for quality and prices, then come to the biggest tree display in Mansfield and see how much you can save. Why? Because there is no middle man, so you save. Special! Painted tree stands, 10c, while they last. Trees also on display at Estes Big Tent Mkt., 4th and Ashland Rd. and Estes Coal & Ice Yards, 575 N. Main.

wartime pursuits should the nation be attacked.

4. Training of a huge civilian reserve of air pilots and aviation mechanics.

5. Continuation of the naval expansion program laid down by the last congress—with construction of two 45,000-ton battleships added to the six 35,000-ton capital ships now under way, leading the list of new construction.

Only by having a navy, air corps and army sufficiently strong and modernly-equipped to discourage attack, the president is represented as having become convinced since the dismemberment of Czechoslovakia and Japan's unhalting ravishment of China, can the United States be assured of preventing an ultimate onslaught on the western hemisphere—even an attack on the continental United States.

The president is reported to have expressed the belief that the real hope for this country remaining at peace with the world is through strong defenses, and that —pointing to the fate of Czechoslovakia and China—by remaining weak, it invites attack.

PROVIDES POND FOR ICE SKATING

Johns Park Association Sets Up Rink at County Fairground.

A pond for ice skating inside the race track at the county fairgrounds will be provided within a few days, officials of the Johns Park association announced today.

Permission to use the grounds for skating had been granted today by the Richland county fair board. Park association officials said an artificial pond would be formed at the north side of the grounds by plowing a furrow around a low place in the grounds and filling it with water from the city mains.

The pond will not be more than a foot deep so there will be no danger to skaters, it was pointed out.

U. S. STICKS TO STAND, HITLER MOVE AWAITED

Washington Hears Roosevelt Determined to Maintain Strong Attitude.

United States, however, the German press was not silent.

Two authoritative Nazi newspapers used the term "ruptured" and "abrogration of German-American relations" in renewed attacks on Ickes.

Hit Roosevelt Medal.

A third paper singled out the presentation of a Jewish medal to President Roosevelt as an example of "Jewish gangsterism." The paper was the Nachatausgabe together with the official German news agency, DNB.

The award it mentioned was a medal given to President Roosevelt by the American Hebrew union.

Nachtausgabe said:

"The 'honor' which Jewry, led by its most prominent war mongers, bestowed on the president needs no commentary. The question only remains whether Mr. Roosevelt really considers himself honored; and how the American public, which in no way can be identified with United States Jewish machinations, will receive the latest demonstration of Jewry, because in the last analysis Americans suffer appreciably under those conditions created by Jewish gangsterdom, which ever and again delivers the reputation of the United States the heaviest blows."

Chancellor Hitler's newspaper, Voelkischer Beobachter, printed a picture of Mr. Ickes with this caption:

"H. L. Ickes, 64-year-old secretary of the interior of the United States, who, through anti-German intrigues wants incurably to poison America's relations with Germany and drive developments toward a rupture.

"We have exposed his machinations. That this darling of Judah (Jewry) is of German descent we record with feeling fit for Ickes."

Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering s newspaper, the National Zeitung of Essen, cited the Coster-Musica drug firm case, and said:

Blamed for 'Scandals.'

"What has Ickes got to say? Apparently nothing—absolutely nothing. He is also responsible for scandalous happenings in the United States, which again was proved by the Coster-Musica case because he failed to take decisive steps to combat crime.

"He rather prefers to deliver hate-inspired speeches against Germany. In the nastiest terms, he who hardly has a spotless shirt himself boldly attacked the German head of state and on this occasion plainly expressed a desire for the abrogation of German-American relations."

Another important Berlin newspaper, the Lokal Anzeiger, caustically criticized a scene that took place in Secretary Ickes' office in Washington yesterday, when American news correspondents greeted him with "Heils."

This was termed a "harlequinade with Ickes" by the paper, which observed in an editorial:

"If the scene were not intended as a new affront against Germany, one might leave that silly bunch alone. We have heard many grotesque sayings, but this silly joke well exceeds the lack of taste which has become a normal standard for certain circles."

The same paper also criticized President Roosevelt for not taking action to silence Secretary Ickes. Referring to the fact that President Roosevelt dined with his secretary of the interior Tuesday night, Lokal Anzeiger stated:

"We thought there was someone in North America who would restrict this man. The president's coworker seems to have a general permit to surpass challenges by provocation, in accordance with the desires of Jews."

New... Delicious! IT'S BANANA TEA BREAD

THERE'S more than meets the eye in this delicious bread with its cake-like texture. Yes—bananas! Bananas, sweet and ripe, are used as the only liquid ingredient.

That's why Banana Tea Bread keeps fresh and moist for several days. That's why it has such a rich fruity flavor. That's why it makes such delicious sandwiches, French toast and cinnamon toast—why it's so good just served plain with butter. Try it!

UNITED FRUIT BANANAS

distributed by

FRUIT DISPATCH CO.

Banana Tea Bread

1¾ cups sifted flour
½ teaspoon soda
1½ teaspoons cream of tartar
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup shortening
⅔ cup sugar
2 eggs, well beaten
1 cup mashed ripe banana (2 to 3 bananas)

Sift the flour, soda, cream of tartar and salt together 3 times. Rub the shortening to a creamy consistency with the back of a spoon. Stir the sugar, a few tablespoons at a time, into the shortening and continue stirring after each addition until light and fluffy. Add eggs and beat well. Add flour mixture, alternately with banana, a small amount at a time. Beat after each addition until smooth. Pour it to a well-greased loaf pan and bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) about 1 hour or until bread is done. Makes 1 loaf, about 8½ x 4½ x 3 inches. This is a tested recipe. For perfect results, use level measurements and follow directions strictly.

ROMANCE, INC. + + +

By OREN ARNOLD

(Copyright, 1938)

CHAPTER 30

WHEN YOU advertise a tractor or a mouse trap or a cigaret or a soap or anything else in the United States of America, your product had better be up to its advertised claims. If it isn't, John Customer will discover that fact rather promptly, and send you into the business oblivion you unquestionably deserve. It is the American way, and it is a good way.

Mrs. Sarah Sue Davis, Incorporated, was well aware of that. Not so much as a business principle—for she was none too experienced in business—but as a rather obvious American moral principle. In short, she believed it was dishonest, sneaking, mean, to advertise a product or a service which was not as advertised. And she had advertised expert counsel in romance.

One of her most enthusiastic customers had been Mr. Worthington Gurley, almost 18 years old. She had accepted his money and agreed to guide his heart affairs. When Fate diabolically caused Worthington to fall in love with Sara Sue herself, she still did not feel free of obligation.

"He's a cute boy," she admitted, in serious discussion with her Mother Davis one night. I've got to stop him from seeing so much of me. I've got a plan, too."

"What, dear?" Mother Davis asked.

"Never mind. I'll tell you about it afterward—if it works. He thinks he's in love with me."

* * *

She chose as the scene for her nefarious frame-up the fashionable Montrose Plunge. This swimming pool, in a beautiful country club, is itself a work of art. It is outdoors in summer; indoors and heated in winter, with a glass roof. There are many beautiful tile pictures, many potted palms, pretty this and pretty that. Sara Sue agreed to go with Worthington for a "private" swim at 11 o'clock in the morning. It was a day when he had no classes from 10:30 to 1, and an hour when probably nobody else would be swimming. But—Sara Sue said she had to go down town first and would meet him at the Plunge. That was part of her nefarious plan.

Another nefarious move was to telephone Helen McKean, who was Sara Sue's friend and who weighed 212 pounds and who had a similarly adipose sister.

"Helen, be a pal, will you, honey?" Sarah Sue pleaded. "You and Jane meet me for lunch at the Montrose club. And be there, in the pool, by 10:30. Will you? I'll tell you all about it then. Secret!"

The fat McKean girls were good friends of Sara Sue. They readily agreed.

Finally, Sara Sue Davis, Incorporated, telephoned Miss Marcia d'Alaine, of Baton Rouge, Louisiana, now a freshman at Rice institute.

"Marcia, this is Sara Sue Davis. Can you meet me for lunch in the Montrose club? Or better—can you come and swim with me at 10:30 and then have lunch?"

Sara Sue knew very well Marcia could, and would. She had already investigated Marcia's classroom schedule for the morning. She knew Marcia liked her, was in fact one of her most enthusiastic customers.

Now Miss Marcia d'Alaine was highly important to Sara Sue's scheme. Miss d'Alaine, 25 per cent French, 75 per cent southern, 100 per cent American, and perhaps 200 per cent beautiful, was in fact the real crux of Sara Sue's plan, although the little freshman didn't know it and never did learn it.

* * *

Marcia's height was five feet two, which was six inches shorter—for instance—than Worthington Gurley's height. Her weight was 108 pounds, which was 30 pounds less—for instance—than Worthington Gurley's weight. Her posture was the type whereby one can carry a book balanced on one's head, without appearing stiff or unnatural. Her figure was superb—the type that makes artists change from landscapes to figure painting—and her legs were of the classification glorified by the late Florenz Ziegfeld. All of these details, too, were rather essential to the frame-up. Another essential detail was the fact that Miss Marcia d'Alaine had the face that Shirley Temple probably will have when she grows up, and a smile that reminds one instantly of Janet Gaynor.

At a quarter of 11, Sara Sue telephoned the Montrose Plunge.

"Oh, Worthington," she lamented into the transmitter. "I am terribly sorry, but I just can't get there yet. I had an emergency business call downtown, and I'm tied up. Please forgive me. Go on and swim and wait for me."

"I'm already swimming," said he. She knew that. She ascertained it from the attendant, in fact, before calling him to the phone. She had even planned it.

And now let us—as they say—shift the scene.

Let us play some bright, transitory music a la radio style, then re-focus our attention on the beautiful Montrose Plunge.

You will know, of course, that contrast is a marvelous thing. You will have observed that a Negro's white teeth always flash against his ebony skin; that a diamond takes on added worth against purple velvet; that an elephant becomes more colossal and (get this, now) a doe more graceful, when the two stand side by side. This academic consideration is important to the new scene.

There, beside the pool, stand the McKean sisters, total tonnage, 418 pounds. They are good girls, good humored. But they're colossal—in solid bright red suits.

Out of the locker room, now, comes Miss Marcia d'Alaine.

Miss Marcia is willowy, slender beautifully curved. She has on a dainty blue-and-white rubber cap from which half a dozen curls are peaking. The cap seems to make her great big eyes even bigger. She has a blue lastex suit, not too daring, but form fitting, without a wrinkle anywhere.

Miss Marcia does not plant her legs 24 inches apart—the knees leaning somewhat intimately, together—as if they were supports for a heavy wharf. She does not plop both feet down flat-footed on the colored tile, and stand arms akimbo like an angry washerwoman. No, she lets the McKean sisters do that. Quite unconsciously and naturally, Miss Marcia seems to flow forward, to stand daintily on one foot with the left knee bent slightly, in front of the right, and to have her hands gracefully at work controlling her peeking curls—just so her pretty arms show off perfectly. This posture is not studied; it is absolutely natural, while Miss Marcia makes small talk with the fat McKean girls, with whom she is acquainted.

And across the pool, near the men's locker room, Mr. Worthington Gurley has been waiting. He is sitting on a springboard, a little disgusted. Mr. Gurley, along with every other man in Christendom, dislikes to wait for a lady with whom he has a date. It makes him a trifle angry with her. His attention is likely to wander to anything in sight. Which fact was just ducky, Sara Sue Davis would have told you; and was, in fact, all a part of her nefarious scheme.

Sara Sue doesn't come. Worthington is piqued with her, hates to be stood up. Across younder is a perfectly lovely little girl, made more lovely by the extraordinary contrast offered by the McKean sisters. Worthington knows the McKean sisters. They see him. They introduce him to the perfectly lovely little girl. Gosh!

It turns out, remarkably, that the lovely little girl has much in common with Worthington. They both are freshmen at Rice, for instance. They are about the same age. They both swim. They both like football. They both like this and that and the other. And raw oysters. And Republicans. They both love to dance—isn't that a coincidence?

Remember, too, that Mr. Worthington Gurley is not only an aggressive young man, but could be called handsome, even if he is rather boyish yet. Most of the adolescent acne has disappeared from him, leaving him clean and bright. His shoulders are broadening; his arms are strong. He can do a good one-and-a-half dive—look, Marcia. You see, they are already calling themselves by their first names.

The McKean sisters do some swimming of their own; or what they call swimming. But actually their mission for the day has been fulfilled. They are left somewhat alone in the shallow end of the pool. Nobody else is swimmng this early on an autumn day. Marcia and Worthington have the entire deep end to themselves. You see. Marcia can outswim him under water, but he can outdistance her in a surface race. Do you want to learn the Australian crawl, Marcia? Look, you do like this— Say, you learn quickly, Marcia. Say you're—gosh!

Mrs. Sara Sue Davis, Incorporated, had often said that love is the grandest thing in the world; is far too important a matter to be treated lightly or dismissed with a casual laugh.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 23, 1938.

This is the moment for decision that next year you'll do your Christmas shopping early.

Even a depression may be fruitful—incredible improvements of a hundred kinds have been made in the last nine years.

A professional says the way to play a good game of golf is to start at the age of ten—which seems equally applicable to those who wish to make a career of playing billiards.

Christmas Cards Gain In Favor.

THINK whatever you may of the sentiment that inspires the sending of Christmas cards to either home-town or distant friends, it's a custom that has been gaining favor for a number of years and promises to continue long into the future.

Possibly this mode of greeting started gaining when the earlier practice of seeing folks oftener became lost in the hurry of modern living, and since letter-writing has become more or less a lost art.

Or maybe it has come about on account of the vastly greater variety and attractiveness of Christmas cards that have been in vogue in recent years, as compared with the crude offerings of even a decade ago.

It was without doubt the influx of Christmas cards that brought cancellations at the Mansfield postoffice to a record figure this week, although handling thousands of gift parcels has shared in making this a busy week for postal employes.

While gifts of all kinds have their proper place at Christmas time, there are many instances in which some small indication of friendly remembrance brings added happiness—and it may be doubted if this can be better done than by a cheery Christmas card.

Plea for Less Furious Fun.

AT THIS point in the holiday season, with the shopping orgies mostly over and the wrapping and mailing at the cleaning-up stage, an editorial printed in a newspaper on Dec. 18, 1857, is of fresh interest:

"A great error of our present social system in America," wrote the editor, "is that we have too few holidays, too few hours of relaxation from the cares and slavery of business, and too little of that social relish of existence which makes so charming the rural life of England, Germany and France.

"We have become so accustomed to doing our work with might and main that, when trying to play, we do it on the same high principle and make it anything but agreeable. We must be less furious in our enjoyment—more simple and more leisurely. We always hail the season of holidays. We only wish there were more of them."

So that's what it was like in the "good old days." Things haven't changed so very much in the eighty-one years since. At present the charming rural life of the Old World has been severely jolted and has less appeal than it used to have, but Americans still work too hard at their play.

An Example of Social Loyalty.

WONDERMENT is sometimes expressed that there is more respect for law in England than in America. Discussing the reasons for such a condition an American editor points out an interesting fact:

"In our schools a boy grows up learning not to tell tales. In England it is the habit to turn over to the police information about any kind of wrong-doing." Until we acquire a similar attitude, he says, England will be ahead of us in social behavior and law observance.

The opposition of the two attitudes is striking. Our primary loyalty seems to be to the schoolmate, friend or neighbor who is breaking the rule. It is an individual loyalty. Britain's loyalty is social, public or national—loyalty toward the whole group of which the offender is a part.

Our individual form of loyalty is primitive; the social form of loyalty is mature, and with the development of society becomes more and more important.

Arizona's 400 Years.

ARIZONA, which has had statehood only since 1912, is planning to devote all of next year to celebrating the 400th anniversary of the coming of the first white man into that part of the United States. He was a Franciscan missionary named Marcos de Niza, and he assisted historians and future Arizonans by engraving his signature and the date—May 3, 1539—on a rock in what is now known as Pima Canyon, in Phoenix Mountain Park. The engraving is still legible.

Arizona will likely attract much attention and many visitors with its celebrations, in which communities throughout the state are to participate. American history books used to devote so many chapters to the settlement of the thirteen colonies along the eastern seaboard that there was no time left in a school year to learn much about the early exploring and settling done by Spanish and French priests and missionaries in the West. They, too, are worth studying.

The pattern of American history is rich and varied. It is well now if we take time to pay more attention to some of its formerly neglected threads.

Lesson In Honesty.

PARENTS of school children in Darby, Pa., were somewhat surprised recently when the superintendent of schools wrote to them suggesting that bona fide reasons, instead of specious excuses, be given when pupils are absent from classes. He urged that, if the circus or some social event is responsible, the parental statement conform with the facts of the case.

This superintendent's idea is to raise standards of honesty all along the line. The thought is that when children see their own parents refusing to cut the corners of simple veracity, they themselves will be that much more inclined toward straightforward dealings with teachers and fellow pupils.

When you read an item about "an aged man of 50" you will know that a youthful aspirant to journalism is being given a tryout.

Hearing George Burns trying to explain it to Gracie Allen should prove quite amusing.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON — Don't be thunderstruck if the humble merchant you are sending to Congress to represent your district suddenly blossoms out as a scholar on the constitution or a speaker of unprecedented eloquence. Generations of previous congressmen have planned it that way.

Joe Gloofus of South Bottelborough may have spent all his spare time playing golf and reading the Groceryman's Digest but in Washington his fund of knowledge suddenly expands to the limits of the universe.

Soon after his arrival Representative Gloofus is advised of a congressional reference section in the Congressional Library specifically designed to help him him dumbfound his home town neighbors. A bit apologetically he writes a note to the librarian suggesting that if somebody could dig up a few facts about codling moth control the apple growths in his section would appreciate it. Within a very few days there will arrive on his desk a neatly typewritten digest of methods of codling moth control, what Congress has done about it and amounts appropriated.

May Add 'Local Color.'

JOE may insert a few knowing remarks on what he will ask the government to do about codling moths, and then shove the whole thing into the Congressional Record where it will be labeled as a speech made by him in the House. Actually no part of it ever is spoken in the House. But when it is thus printed he can have extra copies made and sent without cost to a large number of his constituents.

For more earnest congressmen who like to do their own research, the library will send over a stack of books and pamphlets. But a lot of congressional energy is wasted by personal research when a staff of experts in the library would take over the task at a nod. Gloofus will learn about that.

On Washington's birthday his constituents may discover their new representative has made a complete study of Washington's opposition to foreign entanglements.

Or he may speak learnedly on women's rights and what the state legislatures have done for veterans. At the wink of an eye he can become an expert on anything from termite damage in Federal buildings to the Nazi radio invasion of South America. His statements will be studded with direct quotations from the Atlantic Monthly and the British Economist to disclose the breadth of his reading. Truly, it is wonderful.

Plenty of Help.

WHOLE floors of the library are staffed with research men and magazines, newspapers and governmental reports are combed for clippings on every legislative subject.

There is a serious purpose behind it all, of course. Gloofus will find on his arrival in Washington that he is expected to vote yes or no on subjects the like of which he never before heard. And it probably is no public waste if he can push a button and get himself at least a smattering of knowledge on a few topics of life-and-death importance to the country or his congressional district.

Boom Taft For Finance Committee

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—A quiet campaign is under way to make Senator-elect Robert A. Taft a member of the senate finance committee. In many ways the finance committee is the most important in the senate. It decides on all tax questions and handles all tariff bills.

Normally a freshman senator does not aspire so high. If he makes this committee, or appropriations, or foreign relations in his first six-year term, he thinks he has made real progress. To make the Taft ambition all the tougher, it so happens that no Republican member of the finance committee fell by the wayside this year. As a matter of fact only one of them was up this year. That was James J. Davis, of Pennsylvania, who won both his renomination and re-election fights handily.

Other Republican members of the committee are Arthur Capper, of Kansas, Arthur H. Vandenberg, of Michigan, and John G. Townsend, of Delaware. Senator Robert M. La Follette, of Wisconsin, is also a member, but is classified as a Progressive instead of as a Republican.

In the last session there were 16 Democrats on this committee, only four Republicans, and one Progressive. It remains to be seen what concessions will be made to the Republicans in committee assignments due to their increased strength. Having the majority, the Democrats can do anything they please. But the probability is that the Republicans will get at least two more members of this committee. Their number—in the entire senate—has increased from 15 in the last session to 23 in this.

THERE are eight new Republican senators, and it just so happens that two of them replace Democratic members of the committee—the only two of the whole 16 who fell by the wayside in this year's election, none having been eliminated in the primaries.

Taft, replacing Senator Robert J. Bulkley, is one of these. The other vacancy was caused by the defeat of Senator Augustine Lonergan, of Connecticut. Both states have been conceded almost a vested interest in the finance committee, due to the days when the most important function of this committee was framing tariff bills, as both states rank high in their manufacturing interest and hence are vitally interested in the protective tariff.

Other states sending Republican senators to replace Democrats are New Jersey, New Hampshire, Wisconsin, South Dakota, Kansas and Oregon. Wisconsin can be eliminated as far as the Taft candidacy for the finance committee is concerned because it already has one member of the committee in La Follette. New Jersey, which is sending Warren Barbour back to the upper house, is normally considered as ranking high in its claims to a voice in the finance committee, but nothing like so high as Ohio, and there is no word that Barbour is making a bid for the place.

OBVIOUSLY the other states are not so much entitled to consideration because of population, wealth or manufacturing interest as Ohio. Kansas already has a Republican member of the committee, Arthur Capper.

The friends of Taft who have been boosting him for the committee place are actually trying to lay a few more bricks in the foundation of a presidential boom for their candidate. And they are as busy as beavers.

Ideal Foot Difficult to Find.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

"ONLY ONE per cent of all babies are born with defective feet, but by the time they are old enough to get married 78 per cent of the brides and 48 per cent of the bridegrooms go crippling up to the altar on broken down feet." So reads a statement that I have before me.

It seems very much exaggerated. "Broken down feet" is a broad term. Foot specialists of all kinds are inclined to think that because a woman wears high heels and thereby has a slight contraction of the toes, she is a chronic cripple. An ideal foot is very hard to find; Trilby's was the only one I ever heard of. But a foot is as good as its ability to do its work, which is true of the heart and a lot of other organs.

Still, the remark calls attention to the importance of foot hygiene in the case of those who have a tendency to flat-foot or some other deficiency.

Don't worry if the baby does not walk too soon. Too premature attempts are more likely to injure the feet than the legs, which latter is the common fear.

Two Critical Periods.

Dr. George W. Nelson, of Minneapolis, says that there are two critical periods in a girl's development when her feet are in especial danger. The first is from one to four years—the adjustment period; the second is from 11 to 16, when the emotional forces of her life make her want to be beautiful and she buys the wrong kind of shoes.

A great deal can be said in favor of dancing as a good foot exercise at both periods, especially barefoot dancing. In fact, the more the young person is walking, running and playing in bare feet, the better.

Exercises for developing potentially weak feet are:

While sitting on a chair, take a pencil between the big and second toes and write a series of letters on a piece of paper on the floor. This strengthens the muscles which control the arches of the front part of the foot.

Roll a golf ball under the foot while sitting on a chair. Pick up small marbles with the toes, lift them from the floor and put them down again.

Stand in bare feet facing the wall, just far enough away that you have to lose balance to support yourself with the palms of your hands. With feet firmly on the ground push back and forth towards the wall, stretching the tendons of the heels.

On the question of shoes, I think the foot specialists are entirely too harsh. Exaggerated high heels are crippling, but most shoe manufacturers make shoes for women nowadays that do not do any permanent harm. Men are, of course, more fortunate than women so far as shoe styles are concerned, and their footwear is less likely to cause trouble.

As for the flat-heeled, broad-toed health shoes recommended for women, I can only repeat what I have said before, that it is up to the foot specialists to design a shoe that will be scenic as well as scientific.

A Farmer's Diary

Sprig of Holly.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

The truck stopped at the entrance to a mountain road, and four men, with baskets and sharp axes climbed out and began to ascend the slope on foot, toward where thick clumps of evergreens made startling contrast with the drabness of the barren hills. The holly shrubs were not very tall, here—only a little above a man's head—but the glossy dark green leaves with spiny edges and the clusters of brilliant red berries were especially beautiful and showy. The little trees were hacked down and stripped. Laden with all they could carry, the men returned again and again to their waiting truck. They left nothing but bare fallen trunks, to rot upon the ground.

The scene is a common one among the hills of West Virginia and Kentucky, or even southern Ohio, just before the Christmas holiday. For while our native American holly is not so beautiful as the famous European variety, celebrated by Linnaeus in his writings, yet it furnishes the Christmas touch in a way that no other decoration can give.

The wood is white, and is used for woodstocks for inlay work. It makes a splendid imitation of ivory. From it are carved the rollers on which calico is printed.

The trees grow from ripened wood cuttings, by grafting and budding and from seeds, that germinate the year after planting. They may be grown on our own lawns, if wrapped with straw, or some other porous protection. Their beauty and rarity will repay their grower for his trouble.

Holly, as a part of celebrating rites, is very old. Even before the Christian era, the ancient Druids used it in token of good will at their feasts. Down through the ages, it has grown in favor, until it seems a vital part of peace and good will to men, each Christmas season.

Be Glad for Birthdays!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

TOMORROW is my boy's birthday. Almost thirteen years since he went.

Once I thought I could never bear to face this day again . . . remembering that first small wavering wail . . . that last long look.

Strange, how we feel about the birthdays of those who've gone—making them a time of horror and despair, instead of rejoicing.

His first birthday—how incredibly lovely it was, in spite of the storm battering against the window, the misery turning in my heart. An inexperienced, unloved girl, 3,000 miles from home or anyone who cared. Yet, with the first curling clutch of his tiny hands the storm ceased to exist, the misery was forgotten. And with him there was born a new, a radiant and a tender world.

Such a joyous world for those 21 years, in spite of poverty and pain. Then—it all stopped. Would never go again. Or so I thought. But now, today—

As I write, laughter tumbles across the field, into the door. The youngsters are playing football . . . scrambling, sprawling, racing through a tangle of golden grass and russet leaves . . . shouting with excitement. Presently they'll come straggling in through the twilight, hungry as wolves, crowding the cabins with their laughing tussle and bursting health. Dear, dark-haired Jack, with the eager mind . . . plodding, husky, round-eyed Louis . . . tall, shy, gentle Don . . . frail little Paul and baby Ray.

They're here today because of that birthday. Here because, by his lovely life, his gallant death, George made me understand their need, made me long to help their struggle. They are—HIS LIVING MEMORIAL.

What would I have known of joy without his life . . . or of pain without his death? The day he came and the day he went were both birthdays to me . . . birth of new tenderness and tolerance and comprehension. I was so stupid until he came . . . so selfish and shut in by my own prejudice and conceit. His coming and his going were both keys—to open life.

AND YET THEY SAY HE'S DEAD!

And some think I should spend all my hours in tears upon this day!

Not tears! Thanksgiving instead! Thanksgiving because I received new birth when he was born . . . because I received new life when he passed on!

Don't cry when birthdays come—be glad! Don't go apart . . . and shut the door . . . and say "They're dead!" Instead say—

HERE'S ANOTHER CHANCE TO GIVE THEM LIFE! ANOTHER CHANCE TO PASS THEIR SHINING POWER AND MEANING ON! ANOTHER CHANCE TO DO FOR THEM THEM THE THINGS THEY LONGED TO DO . . . TO MAKE LIFE GLADDER FOR THE SAD . . . AND STRONGER FOR THE WEAK . . . AND SAFER FOR THE SICK AND FRIGHTENED!"

My dear lad's birthday. Your precious little girl's . . . the gentle mother's . . . or the kindly, understanding Dad's . . . don't let them be DEATH-DAYS . . . let them be true and joyous BIRTH-DAYS.

Greet those days as a young mother greets her baby's birth. Pride in her eyes, despite the pain . . . joy in her heart, despite the price she must pay.

Somewhere our darlings are born again, into a new and nobler venture.

And here, we who so loved them are reborn—to wider understanding, and a finer service.

BE GLAD FOR BIRTHDAYS! DARE TO PAY THEIR PRICE!

Christmas Plea To the Deity

— By GEORGE ELLISTON.

Over the tall roofs come, Dear Christ,
As in the long ago
Bringing the faith, the splendid dream,
The Christian world should know.

Over the wide fields come, Dear Lord,
And in the Christmas bells
Let this ring out, the hope of earth
That Christmas music tells.

Over the dull earth come, oh Christ,
At this soft Christmastide
Bringing to men the wealth of love
That must for peace abide.

Come to the restless, Dear Christ, come
To weary, hungry, poor—
Let them be fed not only food
But more, Dear Lord, much more.

Let it be Christmas, Lord of Hosts,
A Christmastime indeed,
That fills each heart with more of love
Than it can ever need.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Here's my idea of descriptive writing. It's a taxi-driver's report after an accident. All cab drivers have to make out written reports after any kind of accident. This fellow wrote:

"I was goin' home to eat. I gets around a corner. There's a sudden trolley car. To avoid an accident I runs a pedestrian over."

That's all, and, it seems to us, anything further would be superfluous. We came upon the quotation in a letter from Mr. Dave Elman, who puts on the hobby show, and he has collected quite a sheaf of these reports. Most of them were very amusing. The best tag-line was in the report of a cabby who was struck by a female motorist. The cabby wrote: "The lady who hit me was a woman driver."

QUOTATION: "I would like to live long enough to write three more novels and twenty-five stories. I know some pretty good ones."—Ernest Hemingway.

Note: Mr. Hemingway already has one play, six novels, two books on the science of bull-fighting, and 49 short stories to his credit. Of all cities, he prefers to work in Madrid. However, he points out, he has enjoyed much success working in Miami and on a ranch out west.

Mr. Paul Mosher, the gad-about publicist, swears this actually happened. It seems that Adele Ronson, the actress, attended a concert at Town Hall. Suddenly she turned to a friend:

"That violinist reminds me of Paderewski."

"But Paderewski isn't a violinist," objected her friend.

"I know," said Adele, "and neither is this guy."

After making note of Mr. Mosher's utterances I wandered over to 45th street where a long queue of people were lined up at the boxoffice. It was a hit play, but the day was cold, the chill biting, and most of the standees wore glum expressions.

Maybe it was just because it wasn't a very cheerful day but there wasn't a gay countenance in the line. Just then a big nose appeared, and behind it, Jimmy Durante. He was just shuffling along the street. As he approached the line the first man looked up and grinned. Then the next man grinned. As Jimmy ambled past the line the smile followed him, like his shadow in the sun. It rippled from one end of the line to the other, and remained until Jimmy was out of sight. That's what I call spreading sunshine, Jimmy.

THOSE ultra-smart provision counters, which deal in choice spices, rare tropic preserves, imported nuts, etc., have sailing schedules on their walls. The time of arrival and departure of all major European liners is posted daily.

That's for your benefit—in case you suddenly decided to send your English aunt a pint of banchee honey. You just mark it "Queen Mary," or whichever liner you want it to go. That's all there is to it—except the fee.

* * *

Brock Pemberton, the producer, had just finished lunch at Sardi's. When he approached the hat check girl for his chapeau, she held it out to him and said, "Happy birthday, Mr. Pemberton. Today it's my turn to tip you." And she did . . . a dime.

MANSFIELD AND RICHLAND COUNTY CHURCHES

Invite You to

Christmas

AND EVERY SUNDAY

They were on a journey, but the coming of Mary's child turned them to the humble manger at Bethlehem; and after them journeyed the Wise Men, and soon far and wide His birth was known. That was the first Christmas which lit the world with—Peace on Earth—Good Will to Man. There's no better way to celebrate this joyous occasion than to attend your church on Christmas day and every Sunday. Ring the doorbells of your friends and bring them along.

1938 SIDEWALK PROJECT SETS ALL-TIME MARK

7 Miles Constructed at Cost of $75,000, 3 Times More Than Any Previous Year.

New concrete sidewalks—enough to stretch like a ribbon five-feet wide for a distance of seven miles, or roughly from Mansfield to Lexington—were constructed in the city during the past year.

The new walks were constructed by WPA at a cost of $75,000, according to a report prepared today by Tod Patton, city sidewalk inspector. Of this amount, the property owner's share was $25,300 while the federal government contributed $50,200.

And if your're interested in figures, consider the amount of materials consumed in the construction project.

119 Carloads Used.

According to Patton there were 4,450 barrels of cement used in the new walks, 2,450 tons of sand, 504 tons of gravel and 2,215 tons of crushed limestone—119 carloads of materials.

In all, 199,654 square feet of sidewalks were laid, three times as much as was constructed here in any one year in the past.

The report shows that approximately 100,000 man-hours were consumed in operations on sidewalks during the period from April 7 to Nov. 7. This means that work was furnished for an average of 135 WPA workers for a period of seven months.

Of the total amount spent by property owners for the construction of the new walks, approximately 99 per cent was on a cash basis with only $164 being placed on the tax duplicate.

The program, which is aimed at the rebuilding of the city's broken down walks, was started in Mansfield three years ago after the city settled a damage suit involving a fall due to the condition of the walk.

BOUNTIFUL FOOD STORES AWAIT FINAL RUSH OF YULE SHOPPERS

Whatever housewives want in the line of foods for their Christmas tables, Mansfield stores are prepared to supply them this week-end. Just about everything in the line of fruits and vegetables are available.

Latest contribution to the holiday market is the arrival of a shipment of strawberries from Florida for those who want a shortcake instead of the customary mince pie or plum pudding for dessert.

Asparagus and dandelion greens also are on hand again this week in addition to kolorabi, spinach, endive, all kinds of lettuce, cabbage, tomatoes, brussel sprouts, beans, peas, new carrots, beets and turnips, new potatoes, Red Eye potatoes and Idaho bakers. Pascal celery and parsnips, oysters, celery root, ainse, horseradish, egg plant, cauliflower, artichokes, hot peppers, romaine, cucumbers and rutabega.

With the new crop of citrus fruits in, the week-end buyer may choose grapefruit from Florida, California or Texas now, California navel oanges, or Temple oranges, kumquats, persimmons, and grapes. There are also plenty of dates, figs and assorted nuts for the filling of Christmas stockings.

Mansfield markets report turkey is by far the favorite fowl for the Christmas feast, with chicken second and other birds trailing. Ham is also being favored by many housewives, although the supremacy of the gobbler has not been threatened. The housewife will spend a few more cents tomorrow for her fowl than she did at Thanksgiving time, and about five cents more per pound for turkey than she did a year ago.

SAVE PEGGOTTY HOUSE

GRAVESEND, England—(AP)—The Dickinson society has moved to save from destruction "Peggotty House" of David Copperfield, condemned some years ago as a dwelling.

Salvation Army to Play Santa to 350 Children Saturday

Nearly 350 Mansfield children who otherwise might be overlooked when Santa Claus makes his annual visit Christmas eve, will receive toys at the Salvation Army hall on South Main street at 3 p. m. Saturday.

Tickets have been mailed to the children whose names were furnished by the relief office, Adjt. D. R. Brown said.

Preceding the distribution of toys, a musical program will be furnished by a trumpet quartet and an accordion trio from Smart's studio. H. E. Hawley, president of the Salvation board, and other board members will assist with the program and toy distribution. Baskets for needy families will be distributed Saturday morning.

At 7:30 p. m. Sunday a Christmas program will be given by children and young people of the corps under the direction of Mrs D. R. Brown, and a program for the Sunday school will be given at 7:30 p. m. Monday. Regular services will be held at the Army on Sunday.

Plans are being made to serve dinners to 50 homeless persons at noon Monday at the army home, Adjt. Brown said.

GALION TO GIVE YULE BASKETS TO 60 FAMILIES

Civic Organizations Unite to Distribute Food; Need Gifts for 19 Children.

GALION—Through the efforts of American Legion, Boy Scouts, local firemen, various fraternal, religious, social and school groups of the city, there will be some 60 worthy families remembered in Galion at Christmas by receiving baskets of food and articles of clothing.

Toys which had been repaired by city firemen and collected by the first three organizations named above, will be distributed to approximately 70 children.

However, there are some 19 children at the Crawford County Children's home here who have no relatives and will not receive any gifts unless the public responds. The matron of the home, Mrs. Lena French, said there are 56 boys and girls at the home. Of this number there are the 19 who have no relatives. It is possible that a few of the 19 may go out for the day with families of the city who wish to "adopt" them for the day, but the others will remain at the home.

The children who may have no Christmas presents range in ages from 6 to 17.

Santa Claus, who will appear on the public square Saturday night at 7:30 o'clock, will distribute treats to Galion boys and girls who assemble there to meet him, and then he will go to the Crawford County Children's home which is located just west of the city, to distribute treats to the children of the home.

GIVES HOSPITAL $800

GALION—The Ladies' Auxiliary to the Good Samaritan hospital board has turned over $800 to the fund for constructing a new hospital building here, it was announced this week. Of this amount there were receipts totaling a little over $600 which were raised when the first annual Holly day sale was conducted here Saturday by the auxiliary. In addition to this amount the auxiliary took $200 from its treasury to add to the fund, and paid all expenses incidental to the sale.

An effort to raise a building fund for a new hospital has been under way here for the past two years.

The Hardys Again.

"Out West With the Hardys," starring the famous family, will open at 1:15 p. m. Saturday at the Ohio. A midnight showing at 11:30 p. m. of the same movie will follow the final evening show Lewis Stone, Mickey Rooney, Cecilia Parker and Fay Holden are the stars. The Hardys are invited, in this picture, to be the guests of the Northcotes on an Arizona ranch where Judge Hardy endeavors to untangle a difficult legal problem for his old friends. "Dramatic School" with Luise Rainer and Paulette Goddard has its final showing tonight.

Appropriate Picture.

The Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production "A Christmas Carol" appropriately enough has its final showing tomorrow night at the Madison theater. The movie, a dramatization of the English Christmas story by Charles Dickens, tells of the reform of a cruel, penny-pinching old miser by a poor and tragically crippled little boy. The Christmas of the Cratchit family, the visitation of the ghosts, and the change of heart which comes to Ebenezer Scrooge blend in this ageless Christmas story.

Ridin' and Shootin'.

Two-gun Whit Gordon played by Bill Elliott, is brought to Tombstone to clean up a crooked and dishonest political situation in the movie "In Early Arizona" showing today and tomorrow at the Majestic. The second feature is "Little Orphan Annie" starring Ann Gillis and Robert Kent.

Singing Cowboy.

That singing cowboy who has won the hearts of both movie and radio audiences, Gene Autry, is the star of "Tumbling Tumbleweeds" now showing at the New Ritz. In this picture Autry and his company are represented as being the advance musical accompaniment to an old time "medicine show." The other feature is "The Thirteenth Chair" with Madge Evans, Lewis Stone and Elissa Landi.

Closing Tomorrow.

"Mr. Deeds Goes to Town," starring Gary Cooper and "Under Western Stars" with Roy Rogers will have their final showings at the Park tomorrow. The Frank Capra production of "Mr. Deeds" shows Cooper as a small town boy who inherits a vast sum of money. He comes to New York to claim it, becomes involved in a number of experiences and escapades, is nearly adjudged insane, but finally comes to a happy ending.

BONDING FIRMS HIT ASHLAND COUNTY OFFICE

Ask to Be Relieved as Surety for Treasurer; County Board Delays Action.

ASHLAND—Two bonding companies, the American Surety company of New York and the New York Casualty company, demanded Thursday to be relieved of continuing as surety for Harvey O. Faber, Ashland county treasurer. The companies are surety for the county treasurer in the amount of $40,000.

R. H. Munsie, superintendent of the claims for both companies, made the formal demand which followed a notice sent to the county board several days ago which stated that the companies were unwilling to continue longer as surety. Until given advice of Prosecuting Attorney A. Ross Siverling, who is out of town, Ashland county commissioners refused to accede to the demand.

Hold Evidence Lacking.

The board of commissioners also declined to take action because there was no evidence of any kind submitted by the bonding company as reason for canceling the bond.

With an investigation of sales tax accounts in the treasurer's office continuing, no findings of any sort have been made. The three examiners making the investigation were unable to state when the examination will be completed.

The cancellation of the bond would be equivalent of demanding resignation of the treasurer. Unless instructed to do so by the prosecutor or until such time, if ever, a finding is submitted by state examiners, the commissioners have indicated that they will not take such action.

To permit each of two deputies to be placed under surety of $5,000 each the county treasurer's original bond of $50,000 was reduced to $40,000.

TRIAL MAPPED

Ashlander to Face Cleveland Court in January.

CLEVELAND—(ONS)—Paul C. Guntrup, former president of the Ideal Metal Crafts, Inc., of Ashland, O., who is charged with obtaining money under false pretenses, will be tried in the January term of common pleas court, County Prosecutor Frank T. Cullitan announced today.

Guntrup had admitted the charge, the prosecutor said.

Guntrup, arrested by federal agents in Jacksonville, Fla., when he attempted to sell a truck belonging to the Ashland firm, was returned here to face an indictment charging him with obtaining money under false pretenses.

Cullitan said that he used forged bills of ladings representing that his company had $2,000 worth of goods in railroad warehouses here to obtain $1,542 from the Manufacturers Trading corporation of Cleveland.

The charge is punishable by a one-to-four year sentence.

PASTOR SPEAKS

Galion P. T. A. Group Hears Address on Christmas.

GALION—Addressing members and guests of the Parent-Teachers association of the East school district at a meeting Thursday night at the Junior high school building, Rev. W. N. Robertson, pastor of the First Methodist church, spoke on "Responsibility of Parents and Teachers at Christmas Time."

Some 30 or 40 school children took part in a miscellaneous program which was presented.

During the business session it was decided to hold all future meetings on the third Tuesday of each month instead of the fourth Friday. The P. T. A. is sponsoring the milk project which provided milk for indigent undernourished children.

There was a good attendance and some time was spent in singing Christmas carols. Refreshments were served by a committee headed by Mrs. I. N. Bloch.

The P. T. A. is making it possible for Santa Claus to provide a treat for all of the children at the school today.

Senator Glass Flays Billion Dollar U. S. Relief Plan

NEW PROPOSAL 'SHOCKING' TO VIRGINIA DEM

Veteran in Senate Calls for State Administration of Spending for Needy.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Calling suggestions for a $1,000,000,000 relief appropriation "simply shocking," Senator Glass (D-Va.) advocated today that the relief problem be turned back to states and cities.

"No one knows how much is needed for relief, but the administration wants all it can get," said Glass, veteran chairman of the senate appropriations committee.

Lewis Offers Plan.

Chairman John L. Lewis of the CIO has urged an appropriation of $1,000,000,000 to operate WPA from Feb. 7, when relief authorities say funds will be exhausted, until the end of the fiscal year July 1.

Glass, long opposed to big federal spending programs, told reporters that states and communities had cared for relief problems effectively before the government entered the field.

"They may not have done it on the luxurious scale of Harry Hopkins," he continued, "but no one ever starved to death."

Hopkins is generally expected to leave the WPA, which he has administered since its inception, to become secretary of commerce. Secretary Roper's resignation becomes effective today.

Senator Adams (D-Colo.), who has been floor manager for most of the New Deal relief measures, estimated that between $650,000,000 and $700,000,000 would be necessary to carry WPA from Feb. 7 to July 1. Senator Barkley (D-Ky), the majority leader, previously had estimated the amount at $500,000,000 to $600,000,000.

Causes Speculation.

Some legislators speculated today on the application of a provision in the relief act requiring that $1,425,000,000 given the WPA last summer be so apportioned as to last until Feb. 28.

The act said the apportionment could be "waived or modified" by the president in the event of an emergency, but that he should "fully set forth the reasons" for any waiver.

Aviation Worker Found Guilty At Espionage Trial

LOS ANGELES — (INS) — Karl Allen Drummond, 21, once an aviation worker in the Douglas Aircraft plant, was to be sentenced in Los Angeles today for espionage.

He was found guilty in federal district court, following a sensational one-day trial, by Judge Leon R. Yankowitch, who told him he was "exceedingly lucky."

Drummond, who frankly admitted on the witness stand that he took scores of photographs, plans and specifications of newly designed naval bombing planes, faces a maximum sentence of two years in prison under the particular section of the espionage act under which he was found guilty.

Judge Yankowitch, sitting without a jury, declared that it "was fortunate for you that you only solicited the sale of this material, and that no one paid you for this confidential matter."

He pointed out that Drummond, a former Wichita, Kas., youth, could have been indicted under a more serious section of the statute, carrying the death penalty in time of war or 20 years in peace times.

Gimp Waits 6 Months to 20-Year Sentence

Up and Down THE STREET

Mrs. Walter L. Beckley, South Diamond street, probably tops any other individual in Mansfield in the number of Christmas packages received, yesterday's mail alone bringing her 78. Mrs. Beckley, department president of the Ohio American Legion Auxiliary, has decorated a big tree at the Legion home with ornaments contributed by the auxiliary units over the state who have topped their membership quotas. The tree will have more than 200 unusual ornaments.

* * *

Greeting cards that actually say "Merry Christmas" to persons who receive them are being distributed this year by S. H. Glessner, secretary-treasurer of the Lincoln Mutual Insurance company. The cards show Santa Claus who speaks the greeting in an audible voice when a ribbon is pulled through a slot in the card. The voice is produced from indentations in the ribbon which set up sound vibrations, similar to a phonograph record.

* * *

An unusual Christmas greeting has been sent out by executives of the Westinghouse company, and a number of Mansfielders have received them. Two-pound fruit cakes baked in the Westinghouse kitchens by Mrs. Julia Kienle, director of the institute, are accompanied by the recipe—which is more than a century old—printed on Christmas cards. Several hundred cakes have been sent to every state in the union and Canada.

* * *

One of the more attractive and elaborate scenes heralding the approach of Christmas has been erected in front of the Geiger funeral home on Park avenue west. It shows a shepherd herding a flock of sheep, all painted life-sized. A lighted star shines on the scene, directly above an image of an angel.

FACES CHRISTMAS 'DESTITUTE' AS DAVEY'S TREE CONCERN SUES

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND — Mrs. Elizabeth C. T. Miller's average weekly income is $750 but, says Attorney John J. Hynes, she faces the holidays "destitute" because of a suit for services brought by the Davey Tree Expert Co. of Kent.

Counsel for the company headed by Gov. Martin L. Davey obtained attachment of Mrs. Miller's income under state laws permitting such a course if a defendant resides outside Ohio.

Mrs. Miller, beneficiary of a $6,000,000 estate of the late W. S. Tyler, Cleveland industrialist, is at Windsor, Mass.

Hynes, arguing before Common Pleas Judge Alva R. Corlett on a motion to discharge the attachment, said yesterday Mrs. Miller "is now destitute and without funds to procure the necessities of life."

The defendant's attorney said Mrs. Miller is a legal resident of Cleveland, asserting she voted here last year and is registered by the board of elections.

Judge Corlett granted Hynes' motion but later held it in abeyance after Attorney H. Walter Stewart of the tree company's counsel, who was unable to appear because of illness, telephoned the court he would produce testimony showing that Mrs. Miller's legal residence is in Windsor.

Hynes pleaded that because Mrs. Miller's Dec. 15 payment from trustees of the Tyler estate was tied up by the attachment, his client has no money on which to live or to observe the holiday season.

Warning to Drivers: Gas to Be Scarce Christmas Day.

Motorists who have ideas of doing any driving on Christmas will do well to have Santa Claus bring them a full tank of gasoline Christmas eve.

Following an annual custom, Mansfield filling stations will be closed all day Monday, with the exception of a few independent stations.

Major oil companies here have announced that company-operated stations will be closed all day, but that all night service centers will be opened at 6 p. m. Officers of the Retail Gasoline Dealers association said that association members would be closed Monday. A few stations will remain open for emergency service, they said.

FOUND GUILTY IN HOLLYWOOD SHOOTING CASE

'No Hard Feelings' Martin Says; Wishes Ex-Wife Ruth Etting Merry Christmas.

(By United Press)

HOLLYWOOD—Col. Moe (The Gimp) Snyder, stared through a window, draped with steel bars instead of holly, today and wished "the little lady," Ruth Etting, whose new love affair resulted in his predicament, a Merry Christmas.

A jury found the Gimp, known formally as Martin Snyder, guilty of attempted murder. He shot but only slightly wounded, Myrl Alderman, the new boy friend who married Miss Etting during the Gimp's trial.

Judge Thomas L. Ambrose will sentence the bald-headed, limping Gimp Dec. 27 to from six months to 20 years in prison, unless Defense Attorney Jerry Giesler can obtain a new trial.

The Gimp, who was married to Miss Etting for 15 years and served as her manager while she earned $5,000 a week as a radio blues singer, kissed Giesler on the forehead, clowned for photographers, and wished everybody, including Miss Etting, a Merry Christmas.

"That's life," he smiled. "Well, Merry Christmas to everybody and particularly to Miss Etting I have no hard feeling for anybody."

The smile vanished from the Gimp's deeply-lined face when he realized that his $40,000 bond no longer was valid and that the bailiff who had him by the elbow was leading him to a cell in Los Angeles' skyscraper jail, pending his sentence.

He waved a farewell to the crowd outside the courtroom with his free arm as he hobbled away. The pockets of his smoothly-tailored suit bulged with fan mail from women whom the Gimp said mostly wished his freedom for a Christmas gift.

The Gimp invaded Alderman's home last fall and shot Alderman through the stomach.

The jury of six men and six women found the Gimp guilty only of attempted murder. It found him not guilty of threatening the lives of the two women, or carrying a gun with identifying numbers filed off. It disagreed over another charge of technical kidnaping.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Some of My Best Friends Are Women But Still They Have Odd Mental Attitude

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Some of my fest friends are women, but, still and all, they do have a mental attitude which is alien to the normal, or male, viewpoint.

So, when I offered the wistful proposal that women who do not need employment should be eliminated from the job market to enlarge the opportunities for men who do need work, I expected to be accused of injustice to the whole race of women.

I meant to say, also, that if employers and politicians who control appointive jobs should adopt this policy, the result would benefit women with responsibilities who are dependent on their own efforts. It was not proposed that women, as women, be barred from employment, but the effect has been the same.

The most admirable ladies rush to the defense of the most unworthy, even though the unworthy by the retention of jobs which they do not need, exclude really necessitous women from opportunities to support themselves and their dependents.

It is argued, in some alarm, that the employer and the politician thus would be given an excuse to inquire into matters which are none of their business, but I believe this is a false alarm.

Unfortunately, people already are used to intrusion into their private affairs. The treasury not only demands the most intimate information but has a right to say what constitutes a reasonable salary for an individual, and has been known to disallow portions of individual salaries as excessive.

Many large employers long have made a practice of asking for detailed information on the private life and circumstances of applicants. Of course, the various relief and re-employment agencies do that as a matter of routine.

The purpose of the public agencies in seeking such information about applicants ostensibly is to judge the need and worthiness of the applicant, but the information also undoubtedly permits the Communists and the politicians to dress their lives.

This proposed use of such information would at least have an honest, helpful purpose. The purpose would be to allot the employment to those who need it, and I think, although I am not good at such arguments, that it would tend to increase wages by removing from the employer's side of the situation the feeling that he needn't pay a full wage because the new hand enjoys a partial subsidy.

But maybe, instead, he would feel that the applicant just had to have the job at any price and would offer no more, or even less. You have to get someone like Leon Henderson to answer questions like that. Give them the morning line and the mean average rainfall of any place and these economists will tell you what card you were thinking of. Peace, they are wonderful!

Of course, I didn't expect that any politician would be guided by any other consideration than politics in selecting women for political jobs. If she is sent in as a deserving worker, by someone who has been allotted a job as his political due, she will get that job if she shows up at the office in a chauffeur job and all hung over like a handcuff king with diamond bracelets.

Miss Dorothy Thompson wants to know what is to become of women who marry, have children and are deserted or widowed. Well, that type of woman would get some of the jobs vacated by childless women who are neither deserted nor widowed.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Squire Richard Arlen stood on his newly transplanted lawn under his newly transplanted trees and looked out upon his not yet planted field of alfalfa.

"It started," he explained, "one day when I was sick in bed—and the morning mail brought me a circular. . . . Uh, huh . . . I fell . . . "

The Breezy Top ranch in Northridge, about 20 miles from Hollywood boulevard, is 16 acres of rolling fields and orange groves against a backdrop of blue, cloud-banked mountains.

Sixteen acres—and that's a real ranch in these parts. Sixteen acres with a view, not only of mountains and valley but of the Marwyck ranch, where Barbara Stanwyck breeds fine horses. Marwyck is right down the hill, and farther on there's Josef von Sternberg's eccentric house, lot, and moat. Bob Taylor's place is nearby, and Paul Kelly's, and Clark Gable's, and Louis P. Mayer's breeding ranch is going up just over the unplanted alfalfa from Arlen's.

Breezy Top gets its name from the winds that blow over the high knoll where Dick's one-story rambling white house spreads. The winds also explain his present lack of alfalfa. Farmer Dick got his seed in early, but the zephyrs swept it down hill to Marwyck. (Miss Stanwyck's crop is doing nicely.)

Actor Arlen, about to begin a new series of outdoor films, has gone back to the soil "for as long as I live." The films and the agrarian impulse are unconnected. Actor Arlen, a sucker for a circular, had hugged the good earth before the movie outdoors called.

For a city-bred farmer Actor Arlen has the ideal approach to the soil. He is not exactly a dirt farmer, understand. He hopes to make Breezy Top pay for itself eventually. Right now it's a home and he's putting out for it. He has taken the good earth in Hollywood stride, which is how you or I would take it if we'd done as well in movies as Arlen has.

Interesting items: radio in every room; electric fly traps; swimming pool (to come); a rain-on-the-roof cooling system for the valley's scorching summer days; interior decoration in simple but colorful English style; 11 rooms and a five- or six-car garage (although it holds only a station wagon and one shining new car).

Well, it has almost everything—not quite. Jobyna Arlen isn't around. She and the squire, after 12 years of marriage, have parted for the nonce. I don't know how the lady feels about it, but the squire doesn't seem to be very happy. If the gossips would lay off, it might be that Breezy Top would have everything. Dick left his hermitage for dinner with Virginia Gray one evening—and next day there was a "romance" in print.

"There isn't any romance in having dinner with a good friend—and neither Joby nor I am interested in anyone else," said Dick.

Once, mayor of Toluca Lake, Dick is now mayor of nearby Sunland. His intention to live permanently at Breezy Top is a fact appreciated by the natives who indignantly squelched a Bob Taylor-for-mayor campaign.

"Taylor," some of the local merchants shrewdly observed, "is not a real Sunlander—he doesn't trade with us."

Writer Urges U. S. To Aid Youth

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Occasionally, persons who run "lovelorn columns" turn the printed page into a wailing wall because girls don't meet the right sort of men, and vice versa. They wail, but no solution is offered.

The fact that the right sort of girls have no opportunity of meeting the right sort of men is an important factor. Hundreds of letters come to this column about this tragic state of affairs. After work girls go home to families living in over-crowded apartments. Or they go to dreary boarding houses, where they never meet anyone worth while. Or perhaps their destination is a spinster apartment where they fry an egg or two, and eat it in lonely rebellion.

It's practically the same with the men, who, after a day's work are forced to eat at uninviting restaurants or soda fountains. Then they take a walk, go to the movies, and return to the cheerless places they call home.

Far be it from me to endorse the Fascist way of doing things. But there is something to be said for that scheme of Mussolini's, started by him a couple of years ago, when he saw to it that young people met decently in their home towns, and when they married, sent them to Rome on a wedding tour, furnishing the cash. He now hands out something in the way of a nest-egg as an inducement to young people to marry.

Why don't we in these United States do something of the sort? We seem to have money for everything else—the old, the poor, the blind, the lame, the halt, even the ne'er-do-wells. But not a copper for people who want to marry, and who would probably give us our best citizens of the future. Real Americans with positively no isms.

Fine meeting places could be built in every town, where boys and girls of good character could meet, become acquainted, enroll in cooking classes—for marriage must be sustained by meals—learn to balance a household budget, have some illustrated talks on good taste in the home.

Hints For Menus, Snacks

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

HERE ARE some holiday hints that may be of assistance to you in planning menus and snacks.

Want a first course or substantial appetizer that will set you up as a fine hostess and crack the ice to a fare-you-well? Then begin with the nuttiest appetizer ever to appease the palate and prepare it for more good things to come. Mix two teaspoons flour, cayenne, one-half teaspoon salt with one cup grated cheese and fold into a stiffly-beaten egg white. Fry in deep fat at 375 F. until golden brown, after having shaped the mixture into small balls, and roll in crushed nutmeats.

Company Dish.

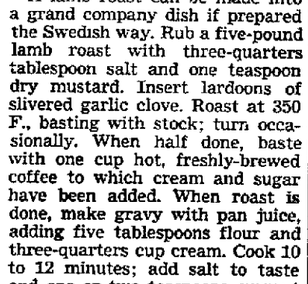
A lamb roast can be made into a grand company dish if prepared the Swedish way. Rub a five-pound lamb roast with three-quarters tablespoon salt and one teaspoon dry mustard. Insert lardoons of slivered garlic clove. Roast at 350 F., basting with stock; turn occasionally. When half done, baste with one cup hot, freshly-brewed coffee to which cream and sugar have been added. When roast is done, make gravy with pan juice, adding five tablespoons flour and three-quarters cup cream. Cook 10 to 12 minutes; add salt to taste and one or two teaspoons currant jelly. An exotic dish, but a good one!

Squash pie is a new and different dish that should add interest to any menu. It requires one and one-quarter cups cooked, sifted squash, one and one-quarter cups dark corn syrup, three-quarters teaspoon salt, two eggs, one tablespoon cornstarch, one and one-quarter cups rich milk, one and one-quarter teaspoon cinnamon, one-quarter teaspoon ginger and flaky pie crust. Line deep pie plate with crust, fluting the edge. Combine all ingredients, pour into place and bake until firm in center, in 375 F. oven.

Orange Charlotte.

The last hurricane missed Florida but a new dessert called orange charlotte swept them off their feet. It calls for one envelope plain flavored gelatin, one-quarter cup cold water, one-half cup boiling water, one cup sugar, two tablespoons lemon juice, one cup fresh orange juice and segments, whites of three eggs, lady fingers and salt. Soften gelatin in cold water and dissolve in boiling water. Add sugar, and when dissolved add lemon juice. Cool slightly, add orange juice and segments. When mixture begins to stiffen, beat with wire whisk until light, add stiffly-beaten whites of eggs and mix thoroughly. Turn into mold lined with lady fingers. When firm, unmold.

Wife Preservers



Most fallen cakes are the result of using incorrect proportions too much fat, sugar or liquid. Or putting cake into too slow an oven.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

BE READY FOR THEM

Fighting opponents will try whenever they can to interfere with the smooth exchange of information between your partner and yourself when your side has the big hands. Your bidding conventions should be so worked out as to enable them to continue to operate efficiently even with obstacles thrown in the way. That is true of the Blackwood convention, for slam bidding, which enables you to continue showing your aces and kings despite interference sacrifice bids.

After East's pass and South's opening bid of 1-Club, West combined a semi-psychic with interference and preparation for a sacrifice by calling 1-Diamond. A wise North, foreseeing the likelihood of an ultimate No Trump contract, refrained from the artificial call of his opponents' diamond suit and instead signalized strength with 3-Clubs. This showed up West's bid as almost surely great length and weakness, so East prepared for a sacrifice by showing a fit at 3-Diamonds.

Undaunted, South used his artificial Blackwood 4-No Trump call to ask about North's aces. West interfered then with 5-Diamonds. To show no aces conventionally, North would pass this; to show one would bid the next highest thing, 5-Hearts; to show two would bid the next level of 5-Spades; to show three would bid 5-No Trump. When he called 5-Spades then, South knew he had two aces. South's 5-No Trump thereupon inquired about the kings. West cut in with 6-Diamonds, but North's 6-Spades disclosed two kings. East then tried to sacrifice with 7-Diamonds, but South knew the No Trump grand slam was certain, with fourteen top tricks countable, so bid it.

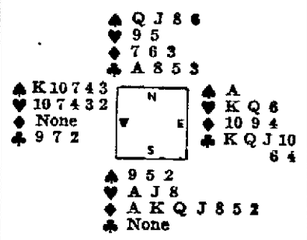
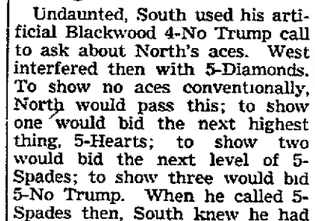
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: East. Neither side vulnerable).

If on this deal, East bid 1-Club, South doubled, West 1-Heart, South doubled again, West 1-Spade, North doubled and East passed, what should South now do?



(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable).

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, Dec. 24.

Despite a minor annoyance, this should be a day of great merriment and high spirits, with many tokens of good will, sound friendship and a definite gesture of preferment and favoritism from employers, superiors or those in high places. There is promise of cherished advancement, with new plans for the future bringing much good feeling and gratification.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may be assured of a year of much happiness and good fortune, with the prospect of promotion, friendly feeling of employers, superiors and others whose preferment may be sought. Success and happiness are assured.

A child born on this day may be talented, willing and ambitious. Its happy disposition and distinctive personality may win it advantage from influential persons.

Sleep Most Necessary To Beauty

By MME. QUI VIVE

It's the same old story about burning the candle at both ends. You go a swift pace all day. Every cell in the body suffers from a certain amount of exhaustion. If you don't crawl in between the sheets at a reasonable hour, give Nature a chance to mend and repair, you are going to lose that lovely rose petal complexion.

* * *

Sweet Sixteen is not in the habit of looking into the future. She's pretty, on her toes, life is glorious. But from sixteen to twenty-six is only a few leaps of the calendar. What then? Why not take out an insurance, hang onto the rosiness of youth? It can be done by obeying the laws of health, one of which has to do with eight hours of restful slumber every night.

* * *

Loss of sleep dims sparkling eyes, places dark circles beneath them. It will bring on a state of emaciation, and that puts one out of the beauty running because skinny slimps are no longer the popular ideal. It will make the skin grey and lower vitality which is bad business for girls who must go to school every day, concentrate on studies.

Fatigue lines come in the early twenties if a girl is not up to standard health. Crinkles around the eyes are a stunning blow. Be far-sighted, little dears. It pays.

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"I can't see any reason for telephoning you, unless something happened at the farm," Miss Whitlock said slowly over the telephone, and there was distinct relief in her voice.

"Let us hope that emergency won't arise," I said with the little shiver which always runs over me at the thought of any possible mishap to the family.

"Of course it won't," she returned heartily. "I ought to be switched for mentioning it, but I wanted to be sure we understand each other."

"There is no doubt of that," I assured her heartily. "And I am sure you will have no more real trouble, although, of course, you may have to undergo some more unpleasantness."

"I don't mind that," she said, adding a little grimly, "I guess I'm giving as good as I'm getting."

"I'm sure you are," I said, laughing, and then we exchanged "good-byes" and hung up our respective receivers.

"Well!" Dicky said as I turned from the receiver, and I repeated the news Miss Whitlock had given me.

"She'll be a match for him," Dicky commented. "He'll probably start sleuths to combing the city, but he can't initiate any public hue and cry, and without that you're safe here, if you don't leave your rooms."

"I've only been out once to get Miss Whitlock's letter, and Mary and Noel haven't been out at all. My trip was before Philip Veritzen reached the city, so I don't—"

"No harm has been done," Dicky said comfortingly. "But I wouldn't go out again."

"I'd better not come back here either," he said a second later. "I'll stay as long as you want me now, especially for that show you're putting on, but I'd better not come back again. Of course, the chances of Phil's seeing me here are one in a thousand, but we can't afford to take the thousandth chance."

"No, indeed," I said, and then he put another pertinent question.

"Are you going to tell the kids anything about the search old Phil is inaugurating?"

"I don't want to," I said, "but what do you advise?"

"That you keep your mouth shut," he answered promptly. "There isn't the slightest good to be served by telling them, and it would only spoil this second honeymoon. You'll have to spoil it enough with that stunt of yours, anyway."

"Dickey, do you really think my scheme will spoil things for them?"

"Not unless Noel is an anointed idiot," Dicky returned. "But why should you get gray hairs over the thing? It's got to be done, hasn't it?"

"Yes," I answered forlornly.

A knock on the connecting door between my suite and that of Noel and Mary punctuated my answer.

"Are you awake, Auntie Madge?" Mary caroled blithely.

"Yes. Come in."

"Are you decent? Noel wants to come along, too."

"I'm fully dressed and in my right mind," I told her laughing. "Bring Noel right along. I have a surprise for you. Someone very nice who is anxious to see you both is here."

"Oh-h!" she squealed. "It can't be anybody else but Uncle Dicky." And the next instant she had dashed through the door and was joyously embracing her uncle, while Noel came slowly behind her, smiling his own pleasure at seeing Dicky.

My Neighbor Says:

To remove cranberry stains from linens, stretch the stained portion across a bowl. Then hold a kettle about a foot away from the bowl and pour a stream of boiling water through the stain until it disappears. Other fruit stains may also be removed in this manner.

Toasted nuts are very good served on ice cream sundaes, puddings or frozen desserts. Try toasted almonds or cashews with chocolate mint sauce on vanilla ice cream.

To toast nuts, sprinkle them in thin layer in shallow pan. Heat slowly and cook until nuts are light brown in color, stir frequently with fork.
